

WORK STARTED ON NEW CITY HALL

Unusually Heavy Vote Expected In Monday Election

15,340 ARE ELIGIBLE TO CAST VOTES

Tax Economy Issue and Interest in Public Affairs Arouses Voters

34 VOTING PLACES

Polls Will Open at 6 a. m. and Close at 7 p. m.; Fill Fifteen Offices

DUE TO widespread interest in issues and candidacies, an unusually heavy vote is expected on Monday at the general municipal election, according to indications today and the comments of close observers. Fifteen offices will be filled from a list of 45 candidates.

The issue of tax economy, plus an aroused interest in all public affairs, is expected to contribute to getting out an unusually large vote, and efforts of the Get-Out-The-Vote committee will be devoted to the same purpose.

Polls will open at 6 a. m. Monday morning and will remain open until 7 Monday evening, City Clerk E. L. Vegely announced.

There are 34 consolidated precincts in this election, inside the city, made up by consolidations of the 71 regular county precincts. In addition, outside areas which are a part of the Santa Ana school district, will vote upon members of the board of education at two additional polling places, the Diamond school on West Edinger and the Eddie Martin airport.

15,340 Eligible to Vote
There are 15,340 registered voters, eligible to cast ballots on Monday in the municipal election, Vegely announced.

He called attention to the fact that each voter may vote for five council candidates, one from each ward, not being limited to voting for his own ward candidate as in some cities.

Police Chief Howard announced that sale of hard liquor will be prohibited in Santa Ana during the voting hours.

UPSIDE DOWN BOY GOES UNDER KNIFE

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 6.—(UP)—Surgeons today righted the up-side-down stomach which had impaled Jimmy Neilson's health almost from birth.

While some 45 guest doctors watched from a crescent-shaped rostrum, Dr. Philemon Edwards Truesdale, eminent diaphragmatic hernia surgeon, cut a large incision in the frail body of the 13-year-old California boy and restored various organs to normal positions.

Some of the delicate operation was the hilltop hospital bearing Dr. Truesdale's name, where, a month ago, 10-year-old Alice Jane McHenry of Omaha, had her inverted stomach corrected by the same surgeon. Still at the hospital, she now walks unaided.

Today's operation required an hour and a half, whereas Alice was on the operating table for two hours and 20 minutes.

RAYMOND HAMILTON, PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 IS RECAPTURED

STATE SOLONS PASS 2 BILLS DURING WEEK

Little Accomplished, However in Fifth Week of Assembly Session

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 6.—(UP)—The fifth week of the California legislature's spring session saw the state's lawmakers settling down to the gigantic task of handling 3500 bills before adjournment late in May.

Accomplishments of the past week, although slight in comparison with what was expected, eclipsed developments of the first month and gave indication of the heated activities which will occupy day and night sessions later on.

Both houses gave final action to two important measures—a 10 cents a pound tax on foreign oils used in the manufacture of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes, and a bill limiting freight trains to a maximum length of 70 cars. Both these bills have gone to the governor for signature.

Handle Four Bills
The assembly and senate each disposed of three other controversial measures, and the upper house in addition handled four bills in which there was wide interest.

Outstanding developments in the lower house included:

1—Approval of a building and loan association reorganization bill by a vote of 64 to 12 after several days of debating.

2—Passage of a bill restricting the advertising of dentists. The vote was 73 to 3.

3—Adoption of a 30-hour week bill which will be reconsidered next week.

Important matters disposed of in the senate included:

1—Defeat of Senator Culbert Olson's production-for-use measure.

GREAT BRITAIN TO SUPPORT PROPOSAL

LONDON, April 6.—(UP)—Great Britain will support an Italian proposal to speed revision of the military clauses restricting the size of the Austrian, Bulgarian and Hungarian armies. It was said on reliable authority today.

It was understood that Great Britain and Italy feel that a gesture of friendship toward the three nations would be both a reward for their faithfulness in observing the treaties and an example to Germany of the fruits of treaty fulfillment.

Foreign minister of Britain, Italy and France, at their meeting at Stresa next week, will consider doubling the size of Austria's army. This discussion will be continued at the meeting of the League of Nations council called for April 15 to consider Germany's violation of the Versailles treaty.

Register To Give Returns Monday Night

Returns from Monday's municipal election will be furnished by The Register Monday night.

Trained election workers will be sent into every election booth and returns will be telephoned to the city room of The Register. Returns also will be furnished over radio station KREG.

Due to the consolidation of precincts it is doubtful if any returns, indicating the trend of the vote, will be available much before 8:30 o'clock.

Those wishing election information Monday night are urged to call telephone numbers 29, 90 and 87, 88 and 89.

POET ROBINSON ANSWERS CALL EARLY TODAY

Three Times Winner of Pulitzer Prize Dies From Chronic Ailment

NEW YORK, April 6.—(UP)—Edwin Arlington Robinson, three times winner of the Pulitzer prize and one of the world's most distinguished poets, died early today of a chronic ailment.

Robinson had been in a coma since Wednesday when he bade farewell to two old friends, Carty Ranck, a dramatic critic, and George Burnham, a railroad man. Robinson was born at Head Tide, Maine, Dec. 22, 1869.

He was one of the greatest literary figures of his generation and

BILLINGS DENIED PAROLE BY BOARD

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., April 6.—(UP)—Without explaining their reasons, the state board of prison terms and paroles crushed Warren K. Billings' hopes for an early freedom today by refusing for the second time to parole the man convicted with Tom Mooney in the preparedness day bombings.

Billings swallowed his disappointment and showed no sign of his feelings when informed of the decision.

"Well that makes two denials to-night," he told newspapermen as he stood in the prison corridor outside the room where the board has been considering his plea.

"The board issued the first one in refusing my parole. I'm making the second one in refusing to be interviewed."

U. S. ENTRY IN UNDER DEATH WAR OBSERVED SENTENCE IN OVER NATION TEXAS JAIL

Eighteenth Anniversary is Celebrated as New War Spirit Grips Europe

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(UP)—Eighteen years ago today the United States declared war on Germany.

The nation observed that anniversary in many ways. In a few cities veterans marched to martial airs. There was little jubilation. A spirit of foreboding hung over the world.

Europe appeared drawn toward another war such as sucked the United States into its bloody vortex on April 6, 1917. None professed to want war. All feared it would come.

The tramp of marching feet echoed over the battlefields of Europe where between 1914 and 1918 nearly 9,000,000 men were slain by their neighbors.

Nations that still owe billions of dollars for the last war, have budgets calling for more billions to be spent in preparation for the next. The world's defense bill today is the greatest in peacetime history.

European statesmen scurry from one capital to another, frantically seeking some method of at least postponing war. A dozen tinder boxes of potential conflict wait only a spark to send nations still war-weary at each other's throats.

Seven principal nations—United States, Japan, Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Germany—spent more than five billion dollars last year to rearm. Budgets for next year are even larger.

The United States spent $543,628,018 for national defense last year. Estimate expenditures for

ITALIAN DISPUTE UP BEFORE LEAGUE

GENEVA, April 6.—(UP)—The dispute between Italy and Abyssinia—threatening warfare in Africa—will be put among the urgent questions for submission to the league of nations council meeting April 15, it was learned today.

Joseph Avenol, secretary general of the league, decided to include the Abyssinian controversy among the questions before the council, but he will leave it for the council to decide whether the issue actually will be placed on the agenda.

Abyssinia, in a note to the league, asked that the quarrel be considered at the meeting, which also will take up the European crisis caused by German rearmament. Italy has opposed league action and seeks to force direct negotiations for a settlement of differences arising along the ill-defined boundaries of Abyssinia and Italian African colonial territory.

WOMAN ENTERS SECOND DAY OF HUNGER STRIKE

Miss Lucy Craig Returns to Job on Co-operative Without Pay

CONTINUING her "strike to starvation" to protest the "dole" or "direct relief" system, Miss Lucy Craig of Brea this morning entered the second day of her hunger strike by working on the books at the Brea-Olinda Co-operative Exchange.

She said as she walked the seven blocks to work that "I couldn't feel better than I do this morning," as she hustled along. It was from this "bookkeeping job" she was "fired" by a "Notice for Separation" and tendered a "direct relief" check instead of pay for work that caused her to go on her strike at that method of treating "self-respecting American citizens."

She sent the two checks, and as yet has no understanding why two were tendered her, one for $3.50 an done for $3.51, just 24 and 25 cents less than her pay for bookkeeping, with the notice announcing her being on direct relief, back to SERRA headquarters, announcing her strike. "People want work, and payment for service rendered, not dole," she declared today.

Concerning the statement in press reports yesterday that would indicate she does not understand the Co-operative setup, she said she understands she can work for points there; she said she will work free as a service, but refuses to get a dole.

She refused to permit an exceptional case to be made of her case when SERRA workers explained late Thursday that they would put her back. She wants the policy changed.

Concerning a statement that it is up to the local cooperative to hire and fire, she exhibited an order signed by William J. Twy, placement officer of the SERRA, indicating her work was to end March 21, 1935.

Harry Massey, manager of the Brea-Olinda Co-operative, said this morning that "Concerning the statement that Miss Craig and other workers are hired and fired by the Co-operative, this is the third bookkeeper we have had taken off this job at the Brea-Olinda Co-operative Exchange; the directors have had nothing to say about it, except we have tried hard to keep Miss Craig on pay."

CULBERTSONS TAKE COMMANDING LEAD

NEW YORK, April 6.—(UP)—34-made hands for snare or slam boosted the Ely Culbertsons' lead over the P. Hal Sims to 14,440 points at the start of the 39th rubber of their 150 rubber family bridge match today.

The Culbertsons took seven of the eight rubbers played yesterday and picked up 7450 points for the largest gain in any one round of play. Mrs. Culbertson was declarer seven times with no sets. Mrs. Sims played three hands and was set twice. Sims was declarer 10 times and went down six.

Culbertson monopolized play by playing 14 hands with five sets. After a one-trick set, Ely remarked:

"Warm in here, isn't it?"

"The window has been open for an hour, Ely," Sims informed him. Then Mrs. Sims explained: "Nothing heats you up quite like going down a hand, does it, Ely?"

PRESIDENT TO SIGN RELIEF BILL SOON

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(UP)—New Dealers, armed with the new work-relief bill, were ready today to begin spending at the rate of $11,000,000 a day to put 7,000,000 men back to work. They waited only for President Roosevelt to sign the $4,800,000,000 measure and make it law.

News that congress had passed the nation's greatest peacetime appropriation was flashed to Mr. Roosevelt aboard the Nourmahal now in Bahamas waters. He will start home within a day or two to sign the bill.

The president personally will direct expenditure of the huge sum which may expect will remove 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 persons from relief rolls.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 6.—(UP)—In the cell which has been his home off and on for almost two years, David A. Lamson prepared himself today for the ordeal to which he opened himself by testifying to affairs outside the 12-hour period covering the death of his wife.

The former Stanford intellectual had two days in which to get ready for a grueling cross-examination as his second trial on murder charges was in adjournment until Monday.

Lamson opened himself to questioning.

MONEY FOR PROJECT IN LOCAL BANK

City Attorney Clyde Downing Announces Receipt of $30,000 First Check

CONTRACTORS BUSY

Balance of Money on Deposit in Federal Reserve Bank in Frisco

GROUND was broken today for construction of Santa Ana's new $115,000 city hall, financed by federal loan and grant, thereby marking successful fruition of labors by the former council which consisted at the time of the bond issue of Mayor Paul Witmer, A. C. Hassenjaeger, A. F. LeGaye, E. G. Warner and William Penn. Soon after City Attorney Clyde Downing, who had guided the city hall project through the maze of intricate proceedings connected with the passage of bonds and the arrangement of federal financing, had been notified that PWA had released funds for the project. Contractors Ball and Homer commenced actual work.

A steam shovel was moved onto the site at the southeast corner of Third and Main streets late today, and began excavating for the new structure.

Downing announced receipt of a $30,000 check from PWA as a grant to the project, and said that the city has been notified that the $70,000 to be loaned by the government is on deposit in the federal reserve bank at San Francisco, awaiting the delivery to the government of the $70,000 bond issue voted for the city hall last spring.

The bonds have been approved by the government and are now being printed. They will be signed and delivered probably next Tuesday or Wednesday, the city attorney said. The $70,000 loan then will be paid through the Los Angeles branch of the federal reserve bank.

The project was started and carried forward by the former council, which succeeded in winning

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IS GIVEN SUPPORT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 6.—(UP)—Public ownership of steamship terminals was advocated in a hearing before the senate livestock investigating committee when witnesses protested the rate having possible at packer-owned terminals.

F. D. Parr, operator of the Richmond terminal, testified that "ruthless competition" existed in the San Francisco Bay area and that there was no hope for private industry to succeed in competition with packers owning their own terminals.

He referred particularly to the Encinal terminals controlled by the California Packing corporation.

"The day is coming when all terminal systems will be operated by public ownership," he told the committee.

ARE YOU STILL IN THE LINCOLN OR ARE YOU ON FOOT?

(An Editorial)

We have had to change our habits. Some of us used to ride in Cadillacs or Lincolns or Pierce-Arrows.

We have had to come down to the cheaper cars. Some of us have gone still further and we have had to give up cars and gasoline and we are going afoot now, or dependent upon our kind neighbors and friends.

We have been watching the course of these events. We have been constantly anxious to make life possible and to make it easier for all people.

We have taken these positions editorially in The Register and we are continuing to do so.

With the great burden that we have now and have been having in an increasing way in the last few years, we feel that just as we have had to give up the luxuries of life in order to be sure of even the comforts or the necessities, we have felt that these principles should be applied to our city.

We know that the terrible mounting of taxes will wreck our republic unless something heroic is done about it.

We have found that the men who spend most of their lives in politics, and who might be considered "professional politicians," and to whom politics is a living and a life, are the ones who, in this crisis, can only think in terms of increased expenditure.

The only place where any increase is justifiable now is for the needy, the unemployed and those who have been cut down in the lower brackets and who now should be increased in public employment.

But certainly the special groups who have been getting money from the taxpayer should not receive further money, as long as there are hundreds of worthy people who are forced to eke out a mere existence on $24 per month for the couple.

It has been with this in mind that we have fought against thousands of dollars being appropriated to recreational and commercial outside organizations, for we felt for the city to do such things, under the circumstances, would be like a father to eat and dress sumptuously and permit his boy to go hungry and ragged.

This is the reason we have supported the principles embodied in the LeGaye resolution and the confining of necessary expenses to the government functions, for we knew one of these chief functions now is the care of the great number of unfortunate who are looking and working for a chance.

We feel that Mr. LeGaye and those men who take this view in the city, and the ones who fight for this kind of a campaign in the state and in the nation, are the real patriots to whom all citizens, even the ones who opposed them, will one day be grateful.

We have heard so many stories of the tax burdened people that for us to not support the measures and men who have been fighting for these things these years, would be for us to be recreant to our trust.

Monday you have the opportunity to determine, as far as you are concerned by your vote.

You know the position which The Register has taken.

Several years ago we fought for means for the unemployed and we had to meet the united front of many politicians who will not support candidates, unless they agree that they will vote money from the treasury for the specific group in which the politician is interested.

It is a time when loyalty and patriotism demand that we forget personalities and that we stand for the principles of thrift and economy, justice and honesty to insure the continuance of our republic.

The president is fighting today against "political" expenditure on the one hand, while on the other hand he is fighting for the larger means to help the disappointed throughout our land.

The president knows, as every other thinking man knows, that in proportion as you take the taxpayers' money for those who DO NOT NEED IT, you are denying it to THOSE WHO DO NEED IT.

As we said the other day, we desire to repeat:

And it would insure that the tax dollar should only go for the necessary functions of government, so that no man or woman could have his property sold over his head for failure to pay taxes, which tax money had been used by outside agencies for commercial purposes.

Fortunately, it is not impossible for you to know who the candidates are who will unquestionably support this program of which we have been speaking.

You can tell them by their proclaimed position and by the ones who are opposing them.

tioning on every detail of his past life—his loves, his work, his courtship of Allene Thorpe of Lamar, Mo., and their five years of marriage—by his testimony during two days on the witness stand.

In his earlier trial his attorney to the 12-hour period immediately before and after he found his wife's body and the prosecution had no chance, under the rules of evidence, to grill him on other matters.

Tears mingled with his vehement denials of wrongdoing yesterday as he told the story of Mrs. Lamson's death from the moment he found her body hanging over the edge of the bathtub in their home to his arrest on a charge of murder.

In between he inserted details covering his friendship with blonde Mrs. Sara Kelley Simonds, the purported "love interest" of the case, and in a strong voice he denied having had a romance with her, having bought her lingerie, or having quarreled with his wife about the woman both had known on the Stanford campus.

Lamson will finish his direct testimony Monday morning. Then the prosecution will take the witness to lead him back over the same ground again seeking loopholes in a story which denied every allegation the state had made during the four weeks it required to present its case.

It was decided to wait until Lamson has finished before constructing in the courtroom a replica of the bathroom in which Mrs. Lamson died on May 30, 1933, either from a fall or a blow.

critics generally agreed that his would be a permanent place in American literature.

Robinson's hearing reflected the traditional conservatism of his New England background. His entire personality belied the brilliance of his writing. He was almost unknown to the masses.

But he was intensely human. In his latter years he was partly bald, tall, stoop-shouldered, moustached, wore steel-rimmed glasses and always carried a stick. He liked a racy story, swore when the occasion moved him and took his whiskey straight.

He was awarded the annual Pulitzer poetry prize in 1922, 1925 and 1928. His best known works were "Tristram," "The Man Who Died Twice," "The Glory of the Nightingales," "The Town Down the River," "Matthias at the Door," "Cavender's House," "Lancelot," "The Man Against the Sky," and "Merlin."

Critics said he was a poet of abstractions, but they hurried to qualify by saying his poetry—hard, cold and austere as some of it might be—was somehow of other, intensely human. He wrote of human frailties, human ailments, and he impersonalized some of them to the degree that they seemed universal.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO PERJURY CHARGE

FLEMINGTON, N. J., April 6.—(UP)—Benjamin Heller, defense witness who contradicted the testimony of Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon in the murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, pleaded not guilty today before County Judge Amos O. Robbins to an indictment charging perjury.

C. Lloyd Fisher, associate counsel for Hauptmann, appeared as counsel for Heller.

Heller is charged with having testified falsely when he said that he, while sitting with a young lady in a parked automobile, saw a man whom he said looked like the pictures of Isidor Fisch, consumptive German furrier, jump over a Bronx cemetery wall the night the Lindbergh ransom was paid.

DETROIT BANKER IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—(UP)—Arthur Brown, 40, retired Detroit broker, was injured critically today when he fell or leaped from a third floor fire escape a short time after being reported missing from his home.

Despite the note, police said he may have been seized with vertigo after reaching the fire escape and fallen. At the hospital he said he was struck by an automobile.

may be necessary to resentence him. He will be taken to Huntsville and executed at the "convenience" of the warden.

Hamilton, in a spectacular criminal career that began in childhood, has escaped so many jails that officials took no chances. He was under the eyes of guards at all hours. His confident bearing, his inclination to sneer and boast, indicated his hopes that he might manage to escape again before the lethal current at Huntsville strikes him.

Officials believed the exact toll of Hamilton's depredations since his escape never would be known. Numerous bank robberies in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Mississippi bore the imprint of his technique.

In that Huntsville deathhouse, Hamilton will join Joe Palmer who escaped with him last July. Their companions in the break were killed by officers. Palmer was recaptured in Kentucky. Major Croswon, a guard, was killed in the escape and it was for that crime that they will be executed.

Disillusionment Told By Wife In Annulment Suit

When youthful Lillian M. McClelland married William Henry Eli at Huntington Beach nearly three years ago, she thought she was marrying a law-abiding citizen, about eight or ten years older than herself.

She supposed it was his first marriage, as it was hers, and she believed his wooing promise to provide her with a home of their own, a car of her own, and at least $100 to her credit in a bank.

That was July 5, 1932. On July 26, officers caught up with Eli, who had been hiding from them at the very time of his marriage, and arrested him for arson.

His bride thereupon discovered that he was 45 years of age, had concealed two previous marriages from her, besides the crime of arson at Huntington Beach, and a previous three-year prison term for grand larceny in Kansas City. There was no home, no car, and no $100.

the next fiscal year are $875,000,000. Congress has voted authorization for an enlarged army, increased naval and air forces.

Virtually every nation has more armed fighters trained for war than just prior to outbreak of the World War in 1914. Treaties which ended that war have become mere scraps of paper.

American World War veterans—whose $2,000,000,000 bonus is pending with house approval in the senate—gathered in auditoriums throughout the country to hear their national commander, Frank Belgrano, address them by radio.

In Washington the national council for prevention of war laid wreaths on the graves of congressmen who voted "no" when the United States declared war on Germany. The living who also voted "no" were felicitated.

Congress debated means of taking the profit out of war. In the house liberals proposed an amendment to the McSwain war profits bill to prohibit drafted arms-bearing service men from being ordered to fight on foreign soil. House passage of the McSwain bill was expected today.

After reaching San Quentin, Eli wrote back to county authorities, "tipping" them that W. R. Tabor, and Jess Sibley, tenant of the apartment house, were implicated in the conspiracy to burn the building. They had "double crossed" him, Eli wrote, so he was thus taking revenge. Tabor and Sibley are now facing trial.

MORELAND CHILD IS CALLED BY DEATH

Richard Moreland, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bernard Moreland, of 1710 Valencia street, Santa Ana, died at an Orange hospital yesterday. Death was reported to have resulted from encephalitis, a brain infection.

The boy had lived here for five years and was a pupil at the St. Joseph school here. He had been ill about three weeks. He was born in Los Angeles.

Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Patricia Moreland, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davey, of San Diego, and W. G. Moreland, of Santa Ana.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m. at the St. Joseph Catholic church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

ROOSEVELT FISHES OFF SAN SALVADOR
MIAMI, Fla., April 6.—(UP)—President Roosevelt again fished off San Salvador island today, eager for a record catch in the short time remaining before he departs for Washington either tomorrow or Monday.

Advices to temporary White House offices in Miami said that the president would come in to a convenient port aboard the destroyer Farragut, which is escorting the yacht Nourmahal.

ning government approval and financing by sending Paul Wither to Washington, where he personally engineered the matter.

The new city hall will comprise three stories, a mezzanine floor and a full basement. It will have a frontage of 75 feet on Main street and 116 1/2 feet on Third street. The exterior will be of cast-stone over reinforced concrete.

On the main floor will be housed the water department, clerk's office, auditor's office, and police department. The second floor will include extensions of these departments, and other offices. The city council chamber will occupy part of the third floor, a portion of this floor remaining unfinished on the interior for the present.

The basement will be used for housing the automobiles of city officials and employees. In addition to the $100,000 loan and grant from the federal government, the city budgeted $14,950 to complete the contract price of $114,950.

Mayor Warner and Mr. LeGaye expressed themselves today as well pleased over the assured enterprise.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
Method and order are required for progress in spiritual things just as in every other worth while adventure.

An earnest effort is easily vitiated by the hour which succeeds it; you say your prayers and then go off on a tangent of arrogant willfulness. Do not fritter away your precious life because of indifference of purpose and halfheartedness in your desires. "Play fair" with your trust in God and hold firmly to that intention. As orderliness emerges out of chaos you will know that you are drawing closer to Him.

MORELAND—April 5, 1935, in Santa Ana Richard Moreland, age 7 years. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Vallette Bernard Moreland, and brother of Patricia Moreland. He is also survived by grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dacey, of San Diego, and W. G. Moreland, Santa Ana. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday, at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Friends may call at the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 118 West Seventeenth street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, to recite the Rosary. Interment will be at Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Court Asked To Save Man's Home

Mr. and Mrs. Ershal Morris, of Anaheim, today petitioned superior court to save their home from forfeiture, because of arrears in payments of the purchase price. Their suit, filed in superior court against the Board of Foreign Missions of the St. E. church, was brought under provisions of the mortgage moratorium act of California, and asks postponement of a threatened foreclosure. They purchased the home for $4300 in 1933 and have paid $1115.50 upon the purchase price, they state.

Let Her Know We Appreciate It

(An Editorial)

We are persuaded, in these closing hours, to say a word on the candidacies for the school board.

There are five to be elected, and we would not presume to designate the individuals.

Four years ago, the citizens elected Mrs. Margaret Baker as one of the members of the school board. Mrs. Baker has served efficiently and faithfully since that time.

The interest of the children and of the schools has unquestionably been second only to the interest that she must have had in her own home.

She has brought to the school board a new viewpoint. She constantly is there, not only with a trained mind, but with the mind of a woman and a mother.

In fact, we believe it has been the almost spontaneous urging from a mother's heart that has caused some jingoes to oppose her.

At any rate, maybe with her children in mind, she said something about exalting the principles of peace rather than of war. And hence some oppose her.

Let us on Monday, by an overwhelming vote, return her to the school board, where her ideals will continue to be expressed!

There are others who are fine. Fifty per cent of our people are women, and if we had any sporting blood, we would add a second woman and put Mrs. Beisel along with Mrs. Baker. Then we men would have 60 per cent on the board, the women only 40 per cent.

Why not do it and vote for any other three you desire? But, in any case, let us support Mrs. Baker and endorse her fine work for the last four years!

WITMER LABELS FIRE CHIEF RUMOR UNTRUE AND UNFAIR

Federal Land Commissioner Paul Witmer, former mayor of Santa Ana, today sent the following statement to The Register: "My friends throughout the city have told me of stories that were given them during the present campaign that in the event of the election of the economy ticket for the city council that I was to be appointed fire chief. "I have received the appointment, and am serving as Federal Land Commissioner, with my office in Los Angeles. I am always glad to serve my city in any way I can be helpful.

"But the suggestion of my name as fire chief for Santa Ana is not made at all by my friends. It is a story evidently concocted in the interest of politics to try to injure this group of candidates by arousing the opposition, which would come to any one who thought his position was in jeopardy by any particular election. "There is absolutely no truth in the report. I am confident those who are circulating it, do not believe there is a word of truth in it, and it is unfair it seems to me, to use such untruths for political ends."

LAST RITES HELD FOR JOHN C. ULSH

DRY FORCE IN COUNTY WILL FIGHT ALCOHOL

The need for education against alcohol, particularly among the youth, was stressed in an address by Dr. Elmer E. Helms, pastor of the world's largest Methodist church for 13 years, at the county dry convention in the First Presbyterian church here last evening. The evening meeting followed an afternoon session conducted by A. F. Newcombe, executive secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, when a tentative committee was formed to carry on dry organization work in Orange county.

Newcombe cited the work being done in other southern counties, particularly Ventura county.

Dr. Helms, in his evening address, held up to ridicule the promises of repealists and their lack of fulfillment since defeating prohibition. He closed with an urgent plea for educational work, particularly in the form of poster designing among high school and junior high school students.

He likewise urged support for legislation of temperance trend mentioning two assembly bills now pending, No. 1000 and No. 56. No. 1000 would prohibit employment of minors to sell or serve liquor in any establishment. No. 56 is the proposal to require California schools to teach the effect of alcohol upon the human system.

The speaker's subject was "Forward March, America."

Declare Your Freedom From "Boss" Control!

Elect Councilmen Who Are Free Agents, Uncontrolled By Any Political Group

Santa Ana's crying need is for public officials who are, in truth and in fact, FREE AGENTS. The same is true in county, state and national affairs.

Public business should be directed by men of independent judgment—Free Agents—whose decisions are not based upon favoritism for any special friends or groups, and whose livelihood or profit is not dependent upon political favors.

No man is a free agent whose job is held by political appointment; who has a debt to pay to any political machine or group.

No man is a free agent who sells goods or merchandise to political subdivisions or to business firms controlling political affairs.

No man who feeds from the political trough, directly or indirectly, can exercise his own independent judgment, free from private business considerations and private political affiliations.

VOTE FOR FREE AGENTS ON MONDAY FOR CITY COUNCIL AND SCHOOL BOARD

Incumbent councilmen who voted for donations of tax money to private groups, who urged big bond issues to aid financiers, who sell to city or county, and who hold two political jobs at the same time should be replaced by FREE AGENTS, who have no political debts to pay and who are not under the control of any political group, clique or machine seeking money or favors from the public treasury.

CANDIDATES ENDORSED AS THE TAXPAYERS' TICKET ARE FREE AGENTS.

They have nothing to sell city or county. They have no political debts to pay or jobs to guard. They seek no contracts from the public treasury. They are uncontrolled by any political or financial group. They are the kind of FREE AGENTS who can safely be entrusted with public affairs, and the collection and disbursement of public tax money.

The Taxpayers' Ticket for the council is the ideal ticket for every intelligent citizen to support, in its entirety.

All are substantial taxpayers, and have been for years, paying more than $3000 per year in taxes on their properties in Santa Ana.

All are men of long and successful business experience in varied lines—experience they are willing to contribute to the community to save taxes and bring efficiency without waste into municipal affairs.

All are independent enough so they can devote all the time necessary to city business without jeopardizing their own livelihood.

They are unfettered, unbossed and unbossable. They are free agents, of ripened experience and mature judgment, and will give the city the kind of conservative, businesslike administration we need as to an aid to sound recovery and increased progress and prosperity.

Vote on Monday for these five FREE AGENTS constituting the Taxpayers' Ticket, one from each ward, and be SURE of a SAFE, SANE and ECONOMICAL ADMINISTRATION:

First Ward.	Vote for One
A. F. Le GAYE	X
Second Ward.	Vote for One
D. JONES, JR.	X
Third Ward.	Vote for One
JOHN E. HALL.	X
Fourth Ward.	Vote for One
C. A. HARNOIS.	X
Fifth Ward.	Vote for One
STEELE FINLEY.	X

Vote for Principle, Not For Individuals

To All Voters of Santa Ana:—

The principle of tax economy and efficiency without waste is paramount in Monday's election.

We consented to be candidates of the Taxpayers' League because we believe we can render a distinct service to the city, and not because of any personal political ambitions, for we have none.

In asking you to vote for us, we do so—not as individuals, but as representatives of the principle of economical government. We are only your agents, to give you the kind of administration YOU want.

With this final and sincere word, we leave our candidacies in your hands, confident that your decision will be for the best interests of Santa Ana.

JUDGE REFUSES DISMISSAL OF FRAUD CHARGES

The district attorney's office late yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt to secure dismissal of a grand jury indictment against W. L. Nix, stock promoter, who was accused of defrauding Bruno Loytty, and other Orange county citizens, of several thousand dollars in stock transactions several years ago.

Superior Judge H. H. Ames refused to dismiss the indictment, as requested by Deputy District Attorney J. Eugene Walker, who informed the court that Nix had made restitution of losses to the victims.

Even though the district attorney's office is able to show receipts in full covering the losses sustained, the court was not ready to agree that justice had been served, and that Nix should not be prosecuted for his offenses. The matter was taken under advisement by Judge Ames for a week.

Nix was indicted by the 1934 grand jury on a grand theft count.

Doctor Given Jail Term for Breaking Probation Terms

Despite his plea to be released and allowed to return to his home in Chicago, and rejoin his brother, a dentist there, Dr. Chester T. Steffy, who violated terms of his probation on a drunk-driving charge by taking a Long Beach woman to a West Orange auto camp, where they got drunk, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail late yesterday by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

"It was my drinking and my associates here in Southern California that got me into trouble," Dr. Steffy explained, asking to be allowed to return to Chicago.

"There's just as much liquor and just as many women there," commented the court grimly, refusing the plea.

Dr. Steffy had first been placed on probation for drunk-driving, for two and a half years, on February 9. On February 27 he was arrested again at the auto camp, and paid a fine of $50 in Orange justice court for being drunk.

His companion, Mrs. Doris Arcey, of Long Beach, who smashed a window in the auto camp and then fled in their car, being arrested for drunk-driving, told the court that she is a member of the Christian church at San Pedro, but lived in Long Beach and attended church there.

Judge Allen told her that she could have probation, if and when she presented to the Long Beach pastor a letter transferring her membership from the San Pedro church to the Long Beach church. The court has not yet received word of her compliance with that order.

Child Patients Making Progress At S. A. Hospital

Four children are confined at the Santa Ana Valley hospital, two as a result of accidents and two recovering from operations. All are making rapid progress toward health.

Donald Callahan, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Baker, underwent an appendicitis operation; Jackie Murphy, 7, has a serious fracture of the femur, and Adrain Urebie, 12, San Juan Capistrano, is recovering from a badly lacerated arm, receiving his injuries when he was riding his bicycle and was struck by a passing machine. The one girl of the group is Joan Hockaday, who is recovering from a spinal bone grafting operation.

CARRIER BOYS PILE UP VOTES IN BIG CONTEST

Register carrier boys in Santa Ana and throughout Orange county were going down the home stretch today in the annual spring popularity contest, fighting hard to win some of the $300 in the prize contest which closes the last of this month. It was announced today by circulation manager R. M. Conklin.

Robert English, who has Route 40, was in second place in the city division today with a total of $3,200 votes which he has gathered. Ben Detweiler, of city Route 4, was in first place with a total of 107,200 votes. Many changes are taking place every day in the contest which has every carrier boy fired with enthusiasm.

UNITE ON EARL LENTZ TO WIN FOR CHIEF OF POLICE

Well intentioned votes, scattered among two or more candidates, often permits the re-election of a public official whom the majority do not want.

Votes Must Be CONCENTRATED On One Man to Win

EARL LENTZ

Personal friendship votes, scattered among the other four contenders for Chief of Police, would probably result in re-election of the incumbent. Those same votes, added to the already large following of Earl Lentz, will enable Lentz to win on Monday, so he can carry out the many improvements which he has planned as a result of 12 years close association with the Santa Ana Police Department.

VOTERS, UNITE! WIN WITH LENTZ!
AND THUS BRING A SQUARE DEAL TO POLICE AND TAXPAYERS ALIKE

He stands for the protection and training of all boys and girls and complete co-operation with parents in this work. He stands for the taxpayers, and will hold expenses down to the necessary minimum, required by the department. He will fight habitual criminals with utmost vigor, but help first offenders and minor violators to avoid a criminal career. He stands for co-operation with all other agencies, harmony in the police department, and decent wages for all employees.

WIN WITH LENTZ! SUPPORT THIS SQUARE DEAL PROGRAM!

This adv. written and paid for by friends of Earl Lentz who we believe he is the logical man to be elected Chief of Police and the only man who can defeat the incumbent Marshal for re-election.

HISTORY

We, the undersigned, friends of Joel E. Ogle, have bought and paid for this space in order that you may know him.

He first came to Santa Ana eleven years ago, as a conductor on the Pacific Electric Railway, running between here and Los Angeles. All he then had was a job, and AN AMBITION.

He attended Lincoln University Night School in Los Angeles, while so working, in order to receive his legal education, and at the same time supported a family.

He was admitted to the Bar in 1930, and has been practicing here ever since.

He has been Assistant City Attorney of this City for over three years, without salary, and therefore knows the work in the office which he seeks.

He has always been honest, unprejudiced, and fair with his fellow men, as well as ambitious, sincere, deep-thinking, and hard driving. His credit standing is of the best, and he never fails to recognize and appreciate the other fellow's point of view.

PARENTS—

Does This Mean Anything To You?

Floyd W. Howard believes the protection of our children is one of his paramount duties. He believes it is his duty to guard your home against tragedy. He believes it his duty to protect children from the character-destroying influence of bad associates.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

He has preserved the happiness of our homes by guarding our children from traffic hazards. Since Howard has been in office, not one child has been injured at a school intersection..

Howard organized the Junior Police System four years ago. He helped to guide hundreds of boys toward useful citizenship. NOT ONE OF THESE LADS HAS EVER BEEN A DELINQUENT. Howard has helped to keep your boy the kind of son you want him to be. Does this mean anything to you?

MR. TAXPAYER—

Does This Mean Anything To You?

Under Floyd Howard the cost of operating the Police Department has been cut drastically, so that your tax bill might be lower. When he took office four years ago the annual budget was approximately $77,000. This year it is cut to approximately $52,000. But the efficiency of the department has been increased.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The Orange County Grand Jury Commended Howard's administration for its efficiency.

HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN—

During the earthquake disaster of 1933, Howard directed the policing of this city so well that this community was free from crime. There was no stealing, looting or violence.

The test of an officer is on the firing line, under stress. Howard met that test—the most severe test ever imposed on the Santa Ana Police Department. Does this mean anything to you?

MR. CITIZEN—

Does This Mean Anything To You?

Automobile thieves know that Santa Ana is a tough spot to work. Since Howard has been Chief of Police there have been only 15 cars actually lost. Owners reported the theft of 451, but 436 of these were recovered.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Altogether, property valued at $77,342 has been recovered during Howard's term in Santa Ana.

A SQUARE DEAL—

During Howard's term citizens who live on the outskirts of the city have not been penalized because they are far from the center of things. Their homes have been protected from thieves just as adequately as those closer in. Three radio-equipped police cars are on duty day and night. Does this mean anything to you?

A BASEBALL GAME WAS DELAYED BECAUSE OF EXCESSIVE HEAT THEN CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF SNOW THE SAME AFTERNOON! DOWSON, N.MEX., JULY 4, 1912

The strangest baseball weather ever experienced was that seen July 4, 1912, in Dawson, New Mexico. The game, which was a part of an Independence Day celebration in the New Mexico town, for railroad employees.

The game was scheduled for one o'clock in the afternoon, but it was so hot that day that the players decided to wait until later in the afternoon. At three o'clock the heat was less intense so the game was started. It went along until the fifth inning, then a blinding snow-storm swept across the diamond. The snow was so heavy, and the temperature dropped so quickly that the players ran for shelter and the game had to be called. Strange as it seems, all during the snow-storm the sun was shining brightly overhead.

F. H. Parsons, who was U. S. Government weather reporter there at that time, explains the snow as follows: Dawson lies in a valley near the peaks of the Sangre De Cristos. The extreme hot weather set up terrific gales on the mountain peaks, whipping the snow from the eternal snow cover and dropping it over the valleys to the east.

RE-ELECT E. L. VEGELY

who has devoted the best
years of his life to serving in the City of Santa Ana

Vegely has proven himself the ideal type of public servant—efficient in his duties, courteous and fair in all his dealings, and serving the entire public in an impartial manner.

He has earned the commendation of all Grand Juries, as well as the men and women of Santa Ana.

He stuck to his job when the going was tough—at $125 and $150 per month—and is now taking a salary reduction of nearly 17 per cent, saving the city $600 per year, or $2400 for the new term.

SANTA ANA NEEDS ED VEGELY

We need his long experience in municipal affairs and his intimate knowledge of details to guard against costly mistakes. We need him on hand at all times to assist the City Councilmen in the conduct of their duties.

We need his fairness; his reliability; his courteous and impartial treatment of all citizens, rich or poor.

He has filled his job well, and deserves re-election.

In appreciation for good service, in the interest of all citizens, and as an incentive to other public officials, vote like this—

THESE COUNCILMEN HAVE DONE A GOOD JOB. WHY CHANGE?

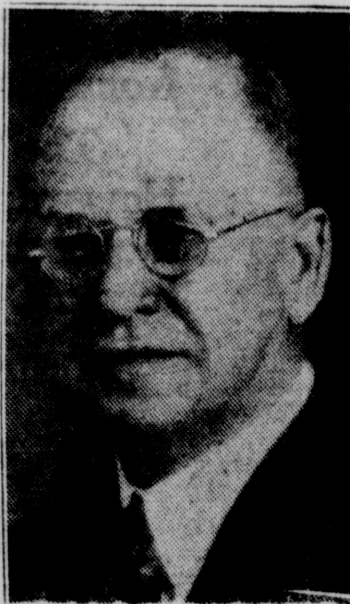

JOSEPH P. SMITH

WM. H. PENN

FRED ROWLAND

ERNEST LAYTON

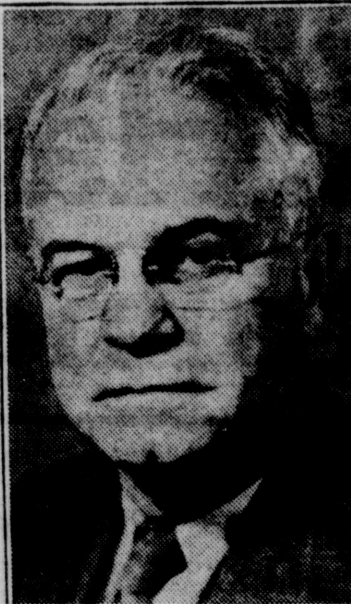

PLUMMER BRUNS

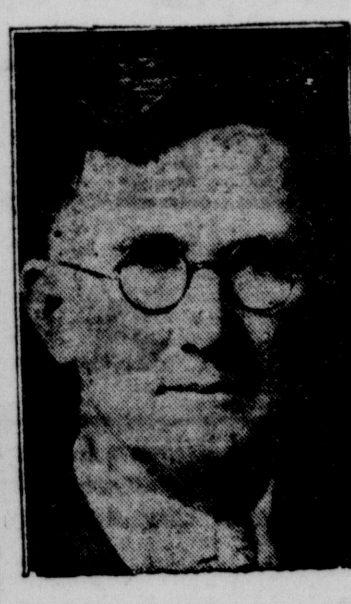

Joseph P. Smith, former State Real Estate Commissioner, has lived in Santa Ana for 25 years. In the short time he has been councilman from the first ward he has already proved his ability and judgment.

William H. Penn, councilman in the second ward, has made an enviable record of economy as fire commissioner. He has served on the council since 1921. Mr. Penn has lived here 19 years.

Fred C. Rowland is one of Santa Ana's constructive farmer-business men. He has served efficiently as police commissioner for about ten months, representing the third ward. Economy is his watchword.

Ernest H. Layton, fourth ward business man, has endorsed the policies and accomplishments of the present council. He will measure up to the high standard of public service Santa Ana demands.

Plummer Bruns, representing the fifth ward, is a well-known business man. He has demonstrated his ability, loyalty and judgment as a public servant of the people of Santa Ana. He has served as councilman for eleven months.

TO THE VOTERS OF SANTA ANA:

Impartial students of city government have rated Santa Ana as one of the best governed and economical cities in California. Another city—Alhambra—has stood out in respect to low cost government. A report on file in the city hall, made by disinterested experts, shows that the per capita cost of government in Santa Ana is even lower than that of Alhambra. Since that report was made the per capita cost here has decreased still more.

Taxation has been stressed in this campaign. This year our citizens will pay nearly $100,000 LESS in taxes than they paid four years ago, despite the fact that the city's assessed valuation has been cut 20 per cent. Four years ago the total city tax levied in Santa Ana was $368,604. This year it will be $279,704.

This decrease in taxation has been brought about under the present administration. You now pay LESS but you get JUST THE SAME EFFICIENT SERVICE.

The Present City Council is pledged to a continuation of this policy.

In the campaign now closing, we have told you the facts. We have been truthful. Therefore we have not promised the impossible. If you wish to verify what we have said, the official records are open. If you wish to test the truth of what some other candidates tell you, VERIFY THAT IN THE RECORDS, TOO!

We have told you the facts in the interest of good government. We believe those facts demand that these candidates be returned to office.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 6.—He may not be the best actor, since that is always open to dispute, but Paul Kelly is the coffee drinker in town. That's one field in which he hasn't any competition whatever.

Paul has a special cup which he always uses for his coffee when he's at home. It holds almost a quart. He drinks this cupful of coffee every morning when he arises. Two more are downed during his breakfast. And another finishes off his dinner in the evening.

Anyone else who happens to be present at dinner can have a large or small cup of coffee, just as he likes, but Paul always has his "demi-tasse," as he calls it.

It was after he had his cup refilled for the fifth time while we were lunching at Sardi's that I became inquisitive about how much he consumes in a day.

"I drink it all day long," he declared. "It's about the only vice I have and since it doesn't bother me I can't see any reason for trying to curb it. I can drink a full quart of coffee just before going to bed and then go right to sleep."

There was a time when Kelly went in for beverages somewhat stronger than coffee. Eight years ago he decided they were doing him no good at all. So he went on the wagon. He's still there. But he's making up for it in coffee.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, April 6.—Mrs. Mattie Stephens and Mrs. Bessie Taylor of Orcutt are house guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Stephens. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens and their house guest, Glen Phillips, of Darrouette, Texas, has just returned after a visit in Orcutt with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hull and other relatives.

Mrs. C. R. Allin and Mrs. M. C. Hillman were hostesses Thursday at the Allin home, entertaining with a luncheon as a benefit for the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church. Carnations, sweet peas and stock in shades of pink and yellow were used in decorating.

Mrs. Fred Law, Mrs. J. F. Wagg, Mrs. L. M. Bloise and Mrs. H. A. Albright are to be Ladies' Aid delegates from the Congregational church to the conference of the Southern California Federation of Congregational Women in Santa Ana April 8 to 10.

Miss Elizabeth Berkey attended a meeting of Beta Sigma Phi, Phi chapter, Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Edith Robinson in Artesia.

Members of the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church are to make a trip to the Ruth home at El Monte April 11. The trip will be taken on the invitation of Mrs. Ruth Upton, matron of the home and mother of the Buena Park schools superintendent, Rolland Upton.

Mrs. H. E. Warren was prize winner when Mrs. Frank Cooley and Mrs. Thomas Bittle entertained a group of Woman's club friends with a card party at the Cooley home. Mrs. L. T. Wilsey is to be hostess to the group at the April 22 meeting at her home on South Grand avenue.

Mrs. William Loughboro is to be hostess to her sewing club Wednesday afternoon at her home. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitzell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pebler of

Voters Attention

It will pay to investigate the record of the candidates for the office of Chief of Police before you cast your ballot Monday.

One particular candidate claims 12 years as a member of the Santa Ana Police Department. How much of this time has been spent in actual police work and how much time has been spent in another city department completely foreign from general police duties?

An investigation in the City Clerk's office will set you right.

SUNSHINE TRIO ON CATHEDRAL VESPER HOUR

Songs and poems will be featured in tonight's presentation of the "Cathedral Vesper Hour" conducted by the Rev. Vivian W. Jackman and the Sunshine Trio, to be broadcast from KREG this evening at 8:30 instead of 6:15 as usually.

Each of the previous broadcasts have featured dramatics on women of the Bible and this will also be the theme of future presentations with the exception of that scheduled for tonight when the trio will sing several selections and furnish musical background for the poems. It was stated that this type of program has proved very helpful as well as entertaining and will be similar to one or two "chain" broadcasts.

The Rev. Jackman stated that she will explain, during the program, how every listener may obtain a beautiful souvenir of the Cathedral Vesper Service.

Listeners were asked to remember that the change in time is for this week only.

LAMENT

As spendthrifts, the New Dealers are to be something of a disappointment to themselves. They have succeeded in encouraging a rather general impression that they are good-time Charlies with the money bags. Yet somehow or other they always wind up their fiscal years by spending a couple of cool billions less than they expected to.

President Roosevelt promised last year to run the treasury $7,200,000,000 into the hole. Congress authorized him to do it. At the end of the year he had succeeded in driving it in only to the extent of $4,900,000,000. That was $2,300,000,000 short of his goal.

You can get a good line now on how he is coming out this year by checking the figures for the first three-quarters of the fiscal year, ending April 1.

He had then dished out about $7,000,000,000, and his program for the entire year calls for $8,500,000,000. This indicates his hoped-for deficit of $4,800,000,000 will turn out to be $2,300,000,000, which is about $2,000,000,000 short.

REASONS

This failure is due entirely to the deficiency in spending. His income is running true to the line he marked out. The three-quarters figures show receipts of $2,800,000,000, which will make the whole year's receipts come out at around $3,700,000,000, as estimated.

But to carry out his spending the existing rate of expenditures program he would have to double the rate for the remaining three months of the year. Even Harry Hopkins, biggest spender who ever hit this town, cannot do that, unless he starts throwing away dollar bills from the top of the Capitol dome.

The spending rate this year has been about $550,000,000 (not billions) a month, and this rate probably will be maintained for the remaining three months of the fiscal year.

CULPRITS

If Mr. Roosevelt wants to punish anyone for letting money go unpunished, he can start with Jesse Jones. The RFC was supposed to touch the treasury till for $400,000,000 this year. Instead, Jones has given the treasury $137,000,000. Therefore, his spending calculations are off more than half a billion so far.

The AAA-ers hoped to run $900,000,000 behind the processing tax receipts, but have succeeded in running only $167,000,000 behind. Mr. Ickes left half a billion short of his estimates. Mr. Farley's deficit is nearly $200,000,000 less than he anticipated, even after giving away those stamps. Interest being paid on the public debt is $900,000,000 below estimates.

The only money-thrower who can hold his head up is Hopkins. He figured he would get rid of $1,700,000,000, and he has disbursed $1,200,000,000. You can trust him to get rid of the rest before the end of the year.

MOTIVE

The man in the street who has been trying to lay aside a couple of dollars for an Easter hat may not appreciate this self disappointment of the New Dealers. Also, the taxpayers, who were drained March 15, may suspect it is not realistic. There seems to be something in such suspicions.

Mr. Roosevelt's habit of over-estimating expenditures for his advance budgets serves several from the New Deal viewpoint. It would be terrible psychology to have a major industry scrap its code just as the battle to renew NRA is getting hot.

VOTE FOR ONE

Informed New Yorkers understand that Washington is privately polishing up a club which it hopes will be effective. Last year federal purchases accounted for 8 per cent of domestic lumber consumption. This year, thanks to work relief appropriations—the figure may be closer to 25 per cent. It might make a difference to the industry's viewpoint if a policy were established that Uncle Sam would buy lumber only from code adherents.

DAMPER

Regardless of how the Mellon tax case comes out it has had its effect on important financial circles.

You may have noticed that big-time conservatives have been surprisingly reticent about voicing open criticism of the New Deal—despite mounting evidence that its popularity is fading. The opposition is much more confident than it was a few months ago—but it still prefers to operate underground as far as possible.

Why? Because right wing leaders harbor a lurking suspicion that they might find themselves in Mr. Mellon's shoes if they express themselves too freely—and that prospect puts a real damper on their craving to crab.

MONEY

Two schools of New York thought are trying desperately to get the administration's inner ear on the matter of monetary policy.

One group—including many bankers—advocates a quick stabilization agreement with France in terms of gold. They are willing to have the dollar further revalued if necessary. They are more concerned about getting it nailed down than as to the point at which the nailing is done. Proponents of this idea would ignore England unless she chooses to come in of her own accord.

The rival school favors abandonment of any hookup with gold for an indefinite period—perhaps permanently. Their plan is to reach an understanding with Britain as to management of currency so that the dollar and pound will not be cutting each other's throats. They argue that England has stabilized her domestic price level with remarkable success without tying to gold—and claim we would be wise to follow her example. They contend the increasing French demand for gold because of the war scare is bound to have deflationary effects here unless we cut loose from the metal pretty soon.

FDR has given no intimation of these courses he favors—if either. But he won't be allowed to forget that a lot of people believe the monetary question is vital.

NEW YORK

PROTECTION

Many financial and industrial leaders—and not only in the lumber business—were annoyed by the government's abandonment of the Belcher case. The Department of Justice was prosecuting open violations of the wage and hour provisions of the lumber code—defended by the claim that the code was unconstitutional. Friends and foes of the New Deal alike looked forward to a Supreme Court decision on this issue as the first clear-cut legal test of NRA's status. No other such test is anywhere near its final stages—so the legal fog is sure to persist for quite a while.

Insiders understand that the sidestep was ordered by highest Washington authorities—and for an excellent reason. The government's side was admittedly weak because of special conditions under which the lumber code was framed. There was serious risk of an adverse decision on this account. A similar test based on almost any other code would have had better prospects and too much was at stake to take a chance.

An adverse ruling would have smashed the legal foundation for the hour and wage provisions of the entire NRA to splinters. New York lawyers believe it would have taken a constitutional amendment to restore their validity. The Department of Justice had to swallow its pride—but that was a small price to pay for protection against such a contingency.

CLUB

Confusion in the lumber industry resulting from the government's retreat creates a critical problem of a different sort. For many months those who have consistently violated the code have mostly been operating in the black while competitors who heeded the law have been losing business because they were obliged to charge higher prices. The latter now feel that their loyalty has been shabbily rewarded by the government and there's strong sentiment in favor of chucking the code in the nearest ashpile.

But this again would never do

3000 ATTEND
THIRD ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

ORANGE, April 6.—With the presentation of special prizes to winners, the third annual flower show of the Woman's club, closed last night, more than 3000 persons having been in attendance at the event. Mrs. H. O. Russell, president of the first garden section; Mrs. L. W. Thompson, president of the second garden section; Mrs. A. H. Hulbeck and Mrs. Fred Alden headed the arrangements for the show.

The sweepstakes prize for the entire show was presented to Mrs. H. L. Haynes for an arrangement of belle of Portugal roses with eastern lilac blooms of pale lavender and deep purple. The roses are very pink and the petals have the texture of old vellum. The prize was a Victoria Herrington robe bush.

Club baskets were outstandingly beautiful and last night the Santa Ana Eboli club was awarded a prize of a large flower basket for first place, while the Yorba Linda Woman's club was awarded a wrought iron wall bracket and flower bowl. Sherman Gillogly was presented with a bracket and bowl for the finest rose; Mrs. F. M. Gulick, a Russian plumage plant; and Mrs. Irving Goldfeder a fuchsia; Miss Viola Andres, for a flower arrangement, magazine for a year; Mrs. Grace Knoll, a hydrangea; Mrs. Ben Golker, a box of bulbs; Fred Meyer, a gardenia plant; Mrs. C. Parker, plant; Miss Bernice Moore, a box of bulbs; Mrs. William Moore, a choice lily; Mrs. A. H. Hulbeck, a potted plant.

Mrs. Albert Struck, a potted plant; Mrs. Kenneth E. King, a pansy; Mrs. Bertha Meyers, plant; Elmer Yordy, an award of money; J. M. Brubaker, bulbs; Billy Shippee, a set of garden tools; St. John's Lutheran church, a wrought iron bracket and bowl; El Modena schools, flower basket; Silverado school, intermediate and Cypress schools, bracket and bowl; Maple, Center, West Orange and Killefer schools, cactus garden.

Attracting special attention at the show was the home grown yucca in full bloom, exhibited by Chester Stearns, a blue and white bird-of-paradise bloom, 12 inches across, exhibited by Mrs. Martin Luther, a pansy four inches across, exhibited by Miss Emma Koski. Large pansies held by side with tiny violas commonly called John-o-plains, gorgeous displays of exotic roses, sweet peas and tall spikes of stock, showing extensive development, were contrasted with the simpler blooms of blue daisies, marguerites and wood violets, while the Victorian arrangements of flowers attracted special attention.

DISCIPLE

Dr. Paul van Zoeland—new Belgian premier—served a sort of religious apprenticeship in the statistical department of the New York Federal Reserve Bank fourteen years ago. Prior to that he studied under Professor E. W. Kemmerer at Princeton. Kemmerer is currently one of the staunchest sound moneyites in the country. New Yorkers comment that his disciple has certainly strayed far from the paths of grace.

SHAVED

Wall Street was got a kick out of an item in the Stock Exchange annual report which showed that income from the barber shop was higher than a year ago. They remark that it's natural—members had to shave close and often to keep from going broke.

SIDELIGHTS—

The prospect of cheap Belgian competition gives cement, glass and steel makers the shivers. A New York estimate indicates that nearly a third of the negro population of the United States is on relief. The $73,000,000 Southern California Edison bond issue is a cinch to go over big.

BONITA BEGIN RUN OFF NEWPORT BEACH

BALBOA, April 6.—Indications of early activity in sport fishing at Balboa this year were seen yesterday with the arrival in port of the fishing boat "Mary J." Capt. Clarence Adkinson in charge, with 45 large bonita, the first of the season aboard, and the announcement of a new fishing barge for the beach city.

Adkinson reported running into a large school of bonita about a mile south of Balboa, making its way north. Bonita are rarely taken this far north so early in the season. Fair catches are being reported from the piers.

Capt. Morton Anderson, Hermosa Beach, also announced that he would anchor his fishing barge, "Olympic," on the fishing banks near Balboa point, two and a half miles below Balboa. The "Olympic" is the largest of similar craft operating near Newport and Balboa, and will be manned by a crew of five men, under Valdemar Sorensen, wharfinger at Balboa.

The "Olympic" will be ready for fishing Saturday, Anderson stated, when regular trips from the Balboa pier will be started.

Aching, Swollen Feet

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces. And best of all, any offensive odor is gone for good. It's a wonderful formula—a combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually. Walgreen Drug Store and every good drug store guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to give real results or money back.

DRUNK DRIVING ARRESTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

SAN CLEMENTE, April 6.—Coincident with the report of Chief of Police Tom Murphine Jr. that arrests for drunken driving in San Clemente for this year had exceeded those of the entire year in 1934, the city council last night gave its first reading of a new child safety ordinance its first reading. Murphine announced that during 1934 only 13 arrests for drunken driving were made and during the first three months of 1935, 18 arrests had been made.

The ordinance, which will prohibit the riding of skates, scooters and other toys in the city streets, is judged a necessary adjunct to the safety first program initiated in Southern California this year.

The troublesome question of donkeys in other people's gardens was before the council again, this time in an ordinance regulating the keeping of dogs, donkeys, burros, cows, horses and other domestic animals within the city limits. The council has received numbers of complaints of donkeys and cows destroying gardens.

Two resolutions, one endorsing the program of the Orange County Coast association, which is attempting to form a fish preserve along the Orange county coast line, and allowing Mrs. Stella Henderson, owner of the building housing the city officers, $55 monthly rental, were passed.

Requests from the Owl Boat company for the extension of its live bait franchise for five years and from G. W. Stearns for a similar extension of his bait stand franchise, were granted.

Police protection for empty houses in the city was asked by George Higgins, and Chief of Police Murphine announced that in the past four years only four houses had been entered in the city. Reports of committee heads were heard and approved, and reports of the city judge and street and water superintendent were heard.

To The Voters of Santa Ana

I have taken no active part in this city election and did not intend to do so for reasons that I believe are obvious to any thinking person.

As the County Supervisor of this district it will be necessary for me to cooperate with whoever is elected if I am to serve you to the best advantage.

However, I cannot sit idly by and see my administration of your local affairs lied about in such a malicious manner as they were in last night's issue of The Register, by the Tax Payer's League in an advertisement signed by A. G. Diehl as President and not tell you the truth.

The facts are as follows and any tax-payer who wishes to verify them can do so by reading the records in the County Auditor's office, which are open at all times to any citizen.

Mr. Jules Markel and J. Simon Fluor were hired by the Board of Supervisors to do the necessary engineering and supervision under my direction. They had no contract, they hired no men, they bought no material, and they made no profit whatsoever from the job other than a very reasonable payment for their personal services.

The only job Mr. Markel was connected with was the Court House building alone and the total cost of the repairs, improvements together with new furniture, repainting, cleaning the building and all was $18,152.17.

Signed, WM. C. JEROME.

350 PRESENT FOR JAPANESE PROGRAM

WINTERSBURG, April 6.—Approximately 350 persons were present for the Japan night program presented at the Wintersburg Japanese church this week, with the door receipts going into a fund for the furnishings of the new church building.

Traditional dolls of Japan, loaned the local church for the occasion, were cleverly displayed in a miniature court house. A complete Japanese kimono costume, valued at $200, was on display.

The stage decorations were colorful, gay Japanese umbrellas and wisteria and cherry blossoms being used.

Visitors from Orange county and Los Angeles county points were present and were served Japanese refreshments during a social hour following the program.

MR. DIEHL

I have been shown a statement by W. C. Jerome in respect to the advertisement which appeared from the Taxpayers' League on Mr. Markel having the courthouse work after the earthquake.

That advertisement declared that Mr. Markel was receiving favors, without bids, from the supervisors and the school board.

Mr. Jerome says that the amount of this work was $18,152.17.

The advertisement was written from memory and we are glad to have these figures corrected by Mr. Jerome.

The fact that this work was turned over to Mr. Markel, Mr. Jerome admits. He says the way they paid it was for time and not as profit, but it is quite significant that he does not tell how much this was.

The fact that it was done without bids and the fact that Mr. Markel was the beneficiary was the meat in the advertisement of the Taxpayers' League and these Mr. Jerome admits. We did not know the amount. I wish Mr. Jerome had told us.

A. G. Diehl, President, Taxpayers' League.

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Millie Graves' employer, George Drimgold, tells her he has a confession to make and warns her against a woman in a black ermine coat.

Millie leaves the office and finds her purse has been taken and sees such a woman. Later she finds a similar one substituted. In the elevator she meets a distinguished-looking man of middle age.

Returning to the office, Millie finds Drimgold dead. In panic she rushes away and registers at a hotel. She meets the stranger again. He tells her his name is Jarvis Happ. Happ seems to be a beauty shop where, in spite of her protests, she is transformed into a brunette.

Happ takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. Millie is alone in her room when a young man she has never seen before enters. He says, "What did you do with the notebook in which you wrote Drimgold's confession?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

Millie's nerves had suffered too many shocks that day. This was the last straw. She wanted to scream, wanted to fling herself on the bed and break into tears. Instead, however, she faced the steady, blue eyes of the young man and said in a voice whose casual calmness amazed her, "Will you kindly tell me who you are, and just what you're talking about?"

"I'm Robert Caise," he said. "You're the new secretary Jarvis hired, aren't you?"

"Yes," she said, "and the fact that you're Robert Caise doesn't give you any excuse to come breaking into my room in this manner, and as far as your talk about murder and a notebook is concerned, I don't know what you're driving at."

Caise looked at her with a speculative frown. His eyes were defiant, challenging. His mouth was somewhat petulant.

"Perhaps," he said, "you're telling the truth, but I'd bet money Jarvis was working on the Drimgold case, and when he brought you home with him..."

His voice trailed off into speculative silence.

"Say," he said, "that could be a black wig, you know. Or you could have dyed your hair and..."

Once more he became silent in the midst of a sentence, took two swift steps toward her.

Millie drew back her hand. "Get out," she said, "or I'll lay the skin from your face."

"No," he said slowly, almost judicially, staring at her. "It wouldn't be the skin of a blond."

Abruptly he smiled and the smile transformed his countenance. He seemed to have lost all the sourliness of his manner.

"Frightfully sorry if I bothered you," he said, "but I knew I had to take you by surprise if I was going to find out anything."

She kept her dignity, but there was something disarming in the smiling friendliness of the young man.

"Come on," he pleaded, "snap out of it. If you're going to be secretary of Jarvis Happ, you're going to be in the house with me and there's no sense getting away to a bad start."

Under those circumstances, she said coolly, "I think it would be best for you to leave the room at once."

"Not a bad idea, that," he agreed with smiling acquiescence. "After all, you know, the matter is frightfully strict, and she's got ideas. Oh, you'll find it out in time."

He opened the door a crack, stood listening, then thrust a cautiously appraising head out into the corridor, turned and grinned at her.

"Const's clear," he reported. "Your good name is still intact. I'll be formally introduced to you later. See that you don't let on you've seen me before. Au revoir."

He slipped out into the corridor, closed the door.

The door clicked shut.

Millie faced it with a sinking sensation in her stomach, a feeling of perspiration oozing from every pore of her skin. Good heavens! What did the man know? What was she getting into? And, come to think of it, what had she done with that notebook? She remembered taking it from Drimgold's office. She must have had it with her when she went to the hotel. She remembered that she must put it in a safe place...

Yes, she had it now. She'd said it in back of a shelf in the closet, then when she'd gone out in the morning she'd forgotten to take it with her. And now, what would happen? Would they find it?

Millie Graves dropped into a chair, crossed her knees and started thinking the situation out. She concluded that the notebook was safely hidden. It would be almost impossible for anyone to find it, unless they were making a careful search. Certain it was that the hotel employees, in cleaning up the room, would never stumble upon it.

A knock sounded on the door of the room.

Millie clenched her hands. "Who is it?" she asked.

The door opened. Millie saw the butler and the chauffeur laden with boxes. Standing slightly to one side was a woman dressed in black, who surveyed Millie with black, lack-luster eyes and said, "I'm Mrs. Eaton, the housekeeper. These clothes are for you."

The men deposited the boxes on the bed and withdrew. Mrs. Eaton stayed behind, holding Millie open to the boxes, listening to her exclamations of delight as she saw the complete wardrobe which had been provided for her.

"How wonderfully complete," Millie said. "There are dresses, gowns, lingerie—everything."

"Mr. Happ," Mrs. Eaton said in a tired, expressionless voice, "never forgets anything."

"But these evening gowns..."

Millie's rapturous exclamations were interrupted by the tired voice of the housekeeper.

"You will need them. You will dress for dinner. It's at 8. I'm instructed to tell you that you will eat with the family, except when guests are present. When there are guests, you can either have your meals served in your room, or eat with the servants."

She surveyed Millie, and said, "I presume you'll have your meals in your room. And, if you want some advice from me, don't let either one of the young men start making eyes at you. You're pretty, and Master Robert never overlooks a pretty face or a pretty figure. You've got both. But his mother doesn't know what goes on in the house. She did fire the second maid, but none of us will ever know whether it was because she found out..."

"Really," Millie said. "I'm not interested. I think if you'll excuse me I'll take a bath and clean up for dinner. You're sure that I'm to eat with the family?"

"Oh, yes. It isn't as much of a privilege as you think, and there's company most of the time. Of course, they may invite you to eat when there's company, but that'll only be when it's some business acquaintance of Mr. Happ's. The rest of the time..."

Millie got to her feet, smiled her thanks and dismissal.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Eaton," she said.

The housekeeper sighed, paused at the door.

"Remember," she said, "I've been here a long time. I've seen them come, and I've seen them go."

...

Much to Millie's surprise, dinner proved to be a very agreeable affair, and at dinner she had an opportunity to see Mrs. Happ in an entirely different light. The woman had perfect poise, was ideally fitted to preside over a dinner table.

Jarvis Happ was very much in his element—sparkling, magnetic, witty. Robert Caise had a certain sullen air of defiance, as though he objected to the manner in which Jarvis Happ and Mrs. Happ enjoyed the semi-formality of the occasion. Norman Happ seemed to devote much of his attention to making certain that Millie was placed at her ease. Whereas, Robert Caise seemed to be far more selfish, interested more in the impression he was making, and from time to time Millie caught him studying her surreptitiously.

Watching Mrs. Happ, Millie realized that no man differed so much in opinion they might have, whenever Mrs. Happ seated herself at the table she would at once become the perfect hostess—a queen of the house, ruling with a regal air.

When the meal was finished, Cynthia Happ tucked Millie's arm through hers, and said, "Wouldn't you like to see the house?"

Without waiting for an answer, she piloted Millie through a series of rooms. Her manner was graciousness personified. She paused to comment on a tapestry here, a painting there, or, perhaps, an antique or some curio.

When they returned to the library she said, "And now I suppose Jarvis will want to tell you something about your duties but, in the meantime, I want to tell you something about myself."

Millie looked at her in perplexity.

"About yourself?" she asked.

"Yes," Mrs. Happ said, smiling. "If you listen to the servants' hall you will find that I'm a thoroughly well-read, unscrupulous, spoiled woman. Please remember that you're not to be treated here as a servant. You will be more like one of the family. And remember that it will be just as well for you to form your own conclusions about things, rather than to listen to servants' gossip. You know one can only maintain discipline by keeping a certain underlying enmity alive. After all, you know, familiarity breeds contempt."

Millie nodded.

"And now," she said, "I'm going

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Read of Ages by Robert Nathan, published by Alfred A. Knopf.

This is a story of an imagined migration of the Jews from all lands into the Gobi desert, there to make their homes. The conception is not so fantastic in the light of the recent action of a certain nation against the Jews. Since at some time in history, practically every European nation has taken steps to rid itself of the Jews, it is no great feat to imagine that the Jews have been driven forth from every country to find refuge in the Gobi desert. One of the outstanding points Mr. Nathan makes is that these people are not more homogeneous than groups of Gentile nationals would have been. They have a common bond in their sufferings but at no other points are they all knit together. Even as regards their religious faith they vary antagonistically.

There is excellent character delineation which is the more remarkable because it is done in so small a compass. There is very little of the whimsical humor which characterized "One More Spring." The sketch of Sonia, a child genius (and, the author speaks of the child genius as having a great appeal to the Jew always), and the natural reaction to her of another little girl, Ann, is particularly appealing.

Wheels and Butterflies by W. B. Yats, published by the McMillan company.

The recent visit to Los Angeles of the Abbey Theater Players has awakened or rekindled interest in the Irish plays and players so that this latest volume of Yats' plays, all of which have been produced at the Abbey theater in Dublin will be a boon to the curious. There are four one-act plays; interspersed with introductory sections by the author which reveal his philosophy and idealism. The four plays are "The Words Upon the Window-Pane," "The Resurrection," "The Cat and the Moon," and "The Cat and the Moon." Each of the plays shows Yats' interest in the supernatural which is brought out most clearly in "The Words Upon the Window-Pane" in which, during a search held in the house where a seer once lived, Swift, Stella and Venessa all appear to put into words their tragic problem.

The Lonely Lady of Dulwich by Maurice Baring, published by Alfred A. Knopf.

This is the story of a beautiful Englishwoman, the youngest of three daughters who were all beautiful. Zita, this youngest daughter contracted a marriage, to take herself off her mother's hands, with a successful business man, a banker. She is an extremely passive individual. Her husband who apparently was willing kept her somewhat isolated. Their friends were practically all his friends until a love affair which Zita inspired with a French poet.

She was about to elope with him but her husband's awareness of her intention was too shocking to her phlegmatic nature and she very nearly killed the poet by sending him word that she could not after all go away with him. Fortunately the book is not long for its whole justification for existence seems to be in the grand gesture of Zita when she tells Walter Price, a newspaper man, the big story of his career. It was a grand gesture and a sacrificial gesture and because of it, all

Lady of Dulwich, being short, is worth reading though it scarcely lives up to the gorgeously imagination-inspiring title.

Not I, But the Wind by Frieda Lawrence published by the Viking Press.

Of several books which have been written since the death of D. H. Lawrence by the woman who knew him probably this one by his widow alone, is worth while. One of those others said that his wife was not the woman for him. With restraint she has undertaken to prove in this book that the statement was not the truth. She does not refrain from recounting an incident or two nor quoting one of his letters which might lead one to such a conclusion but the picture she gives of their full years together justifies her confidence in their marriage. At one point she writes: "... I owe it to him and to myself to write the truth as well as I can. I laugh at the claims of others that he might have loved them and that he didn't care for me at all. He cared only too much. I laugh when they write of him as a lonely genius dying alone. It is all my eye. The absolute, simple truth is so very simple. What does it amount to that he hit out at me in a rage, when I exasperated him, or mostly when the life around him drove him to the end of his patience? I didn't care very much. I hit back or waited till the storm in him subsided. We fought our battles out-right to the bitter end. Then there was peace, such peace."

Those who are students of D. H. Lawrence can be thankful that Frieda Lawrence was challenged to write this book. And when she says: "Lawrence could well teach people how to live, how to be grateful for life itself. He who was always frail and so much nearer death at every moment than most people, how religiously he appreciated every good moment!" She may kindly interest in Lawrence where none has existed.

One of Lawrence's desires, his wife writes, was to write a novel about each continent. Africa and Asia he wanted to do but his days were ended before he could accomplish the task.

The book is biographical and yet, regarded as a book of travel, it is not out of place for the Lawrences were keenly alive to things that were to be seen in the places they lived and passed through.

BILL "LADDIE" AT BROADWAY ON THURSDAY

"Laddie," one of the sweetest and at the same time most dramatic romances in all fiction, will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday for an engagement of three days. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The second feature on the program is "Night Life at the Ritz," featuring William Gargan. The Gene Stratton-Porter novel, "Laddie," comes to the screen as a realistic picture which parallels the appeal of "Little Women." The film version centers attention upon Laddie, played by John Beal, and his love for the aristocratic English-born belle, played by Gloria Stuart.

Laddie is a son of a farmer, but college bred, makes up his mind to take up agriculture. That brings him into conflict with the caste demands of a noble English neighbor whose daughter he loves. Interwoven is a subplot, the "mystery" in the nobleman's family, and also diverting comedy. Romance and drama pace hand in hand, to a glorious climax, with all the punch of a powerful narrative.

In the cast of "Laddie" Donald Crisp, as the nobleman, Willard Robertson and Dorothy Peterson as the Hoosier pioneers who symbolize the nobility of the soil; Gloria Shea, Charlotte Henry, Greta Meyer, Virginia Welder, Jimmy Butler, and Grady Sutton.

"A Night at the Ritz" offers excellent contrast to "Laddie," for it is a rollicking romance in which William Gargan plays the part of a high-pressure publicity man.

WEST COAST TO MISS COLBERT SCREEN DOUBLE AND ARLISS ON BILL THURSDAY STATE SCREEN

After many years of successful and consistent playing on the American and English stage, the play, "McFadden's Flats," has been filmed and comes to the West Coast theater for three days next Thursday with Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge," Andy Clyde, Jane Darwell and Richard Cromwell in the cast. Sharing honors with the comedy is a second feature, "Transient Lady," screen version of a story by Octavus Roy Cohen, well known writer of magazine stories.

The present day, audiences all over the world enjoy the hilarious tale of the simple Irish bricklayer and his fighting friend, the Scotch barber, in "McFadden's Flats."

The play was a hit in New York, and later became a favorite play in the repertoires of stock companies all over the country. It was taken to London, where English theater-goers took to it with enthusiasm.

The Gus Hill comedy has played every small town in the country, in tent shows and Chautauqua circuits. Many years ago it was made into a silent motion picture, and now it comes to the talkies, to delight a brand new generation of amusement-lovers, as well as those who fondly remember previous versions.

"McFadden's Flats" which marks Walter C. Kelly's motion picture debut is the story of an Irishman and a Scotchman who fought and helped each other through thick and thin until they were finally reconciled by the romance between their children.

"Transient Lady" deals with the adventures of three young men who open a skating rink in a little Southern town and run into complications with local politicians that lead to deadly gunfire and the courts of justice. Affairs of the heart deepen their problem which is cleared in an unusual climax.

Gene Raymond, Frances Drake, Henry Hull and June Clayworth have featured roles in this film which Edward Buzzell directed.

"Traveling Saleslady" Opens Soon

"Traveling Saleslady," feminine successor to "Convention City," will open at the West Coast theater on Sunday, April 14, with a second feature, "Mr. Dynamite," it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

William Gargan, fast-talking hero of "Traveling Saleslady," has the romantic lead opposite Joan Blondell in the new film, hailed in advance notices as one of the funniest pictures yet to come out of Hollywood. Miss Blondell is the traveling saleslady in the picture who nearly puts Gargan out of business.

"Mr. Dynamite" was announced as Dashiell Hammett's successor to "The Thin Man," one of the most popular films ever made. Edmund Lowe is starred in the film, while the balance of the cast includes Jean Dixon, Esther Ralston, Verna Hillie, Joyce Compton, and Mary Stuart.

ADDED Popeye Cartoon Comedy - News Chap. 4 of "Young Eagles"

An exceptionally fine group of pictures has been booked at Walker's State theater this week by Manager Vic Walker. They include "The Last Gentleman," featuring George Arliss, "Imitation of Life," with Claudette Colbert, "Madame DuBarry," with Dolores Del Rio, "The Fugitive Lady" and "The Avenger."

The Arliss picture depicts the amusing efforts of an eccentric old millionaire to choose a worthy heir among his various relatives. Others in the cast are Edna Mae Oliver, Janet Beecher, Charlotte Henry, Frank Morgan and Joseph Cawthorn. It is to run Sunday, Monday and Tuesday with "Imitation of Life." This film is from the novel by Fannie Hurst and tells the dramatic story of the life of a widow and her daughter, her negro servant and the servant's daughter. When the widow finally finds love, she discovers that her daughter loves the same man. The cast includes Warren William, Ned Sparks and Louise Beavers. The same program includes "Magic Fish," a Terrytune.

For Wednesday and Thursday "Madame DuBarry" is the main attraction. This depicts events in the life of the beauty who ruled the court of King Louis XV of France, and includes many spectacular scenes in telling the story of court intrigue. Reginald Owen, Victor Jory, Verree Teasdale and Anita Louise are in the cast. The other picture is a romantic drama, with many comedy spots and thrills. It is "Puttative Lady," with Neil Hamilton, Donald Cook and Florence Rice, and concerns the complications when Miss Rice is brought to the home of Hamilton after a train wreck, when she has been mistakenly identified as his estranged wife. A Paramount picture magazine completes the bill.

The program Friday and Saturday brings Buck Jones in "The Avenger," with a cartoon, Charlie Murray and George Sidney comedy, news reel and serial.

The film depicts in dramatic and vivid manner the experiences of a modern American girl in her revolt against the dictates and restraints of tradition and strict paternal rule.

Anna Sten emerges in this, her third picture for Samuel Goldwyn, as a girl typically American in dress, talk and actions. Gary Cooper plays the role of a famous New York author with whom she falls in love.

Stiefried Rumann appears as the father of Miss Sten, Ralph Bellamy as the young man he selects to become his son-in-law, and Helen Vinson as the wife of Gary Cooper. "The Wedding Night" is released through United Artists.

"LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY" IS AT WEST COAST CHEVALIER AT BROADWAY IN MUSICAL FILM

Clever wit and dialogue, combined with tender romantic sequences and living drama, mark Will Rogers' latest starring picture, "Life Begins at 40," the current attraction at the West Coast theater, one of the outstanding films of the year in entertainment value, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Because of the proven popularity of Rogers' films, Manager Fountain has arranged to screen matinees daily for the picture, which ends Wednesday.

Rogers portrays a double-fisted, tender-hearted country editor who proves that the years after forty are the best and goes in quest of the fun-tain of youth. He launches a series of situations that smash the funny bone to smithereens, it was stated.

"Life Begins at 40," relates the romance of a young school teacher and a youth "railroaded" to prison. The shrewd editor brings to light facts that clears the boy, and stirs up a hornet's nest of fun in the process.

Among the high spots in the picture are Will's efforts at hog-calling, and his pistol duel which he wins with wisecracking.

America's ace humorist uncorks a brand new vintage of laughs, from reliable accounts.

The direction of this Sol M. Wurtzel production is by George Marshall. Lamar Trotti, who collaborated on the story of "Judge Priest," wrote the screen play.

The supporting cast includes Rochelle Hudson and Richard Cromwell in the romantic leads, George Barbier, Jane Darwell, Slim Summerville, Sterling Holloway, Thomas Beck, Roger Imhof, Charles Sellon, John Bradford and Ruth Gillette.

Specially selected short subjects on the program include "This Band Age," with Ted Florito and his band; "Topnotchers," with the Easy Aces; "Along Flirtation Walk," a color cartoon, and World News events.

DOUBLE BILL AT BROADWAY CLOSSES

Lavishly produced against a background of the Riviera, "Let's Live Tonight," co-starring lovely Lillian Harvey, Continental actress and singer, and Tullio Carminati, suave screen lover, ends at the Broadway theater today. The second feature on the program is "Princess O'Hara."

Telling the story of a tangled romance which nearly results in tragedy, "Let's Live Tonight" is one of the most entertaining pictures to show here for some time. It was directed by Victor Schertzinger, who also wrote some melodies for the film. Schertzinger is the man who directed and wrote the theme song for "One Night of Love," starring Grace Moore.

"Princess O'Hara," from the pen of Damon Runyon, is an exciting drama which tells the story of how a poor Irish lass becomes in-

"Folies Bergeres," lavishly musical extravaganza starring Maurice Chevalier, begins an engagement of three days at the Broadway theater tomorrow, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Taking its settings and its mood as well as its title from the internationally famous Parisian musical entertainment, "Folies Bergeres" offers Chevalier his first dual role. He is seen both as his gay, straw-hatted, singing self and also as a be-mustached, be-mocked French baron.

Things begin to happen when Charlier is called in to impersonate the Baron in life as well as in the Folies, and a hilarious climax is reached when the Baron returns unexpectedly and tests his beautiful wife's fidelity by pretending to be merely Charlier's impersonation of himself.

Ann Sothern and Merle Oberon, making her Hollywood debut, share feminine supporting honors, while he cast of this production also includes Eric Blore, Ferdinand Munier, Walter Byron, Lumsden Hare, Robert Craig, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Halliwell Hobbes and others.

Roy Del Ruth directed the production from a screen play by Bess Meredith and Hal Long. Dave Gould of "Carolina" and "Continental" fame staged the elaborate musical ensembles.

Chevalier sings five new song hits, as well as a chorus of the memorable "Valentina." "Rhythm of the Rain," "Au Revoir L'Amour," "I Was Lucky" and "Singing a Happy Song" were written by Jack Meskill and Jack Stern, while Burton Lane and Harold Adamson, the team who wrote "Stormy Weather," collaborated on "You Took the Words Right Out of My Mouth."

Selected short subjects on the program include a Columbia sport reel, "Air Thrills," a color cartoon, "Make Believe Review," a Buster Deaton comedy, "One Rainy Walk," and Register World News events.

WESTERN THRILLER ENDS RUN TONIGHT

The feature picture now showing at Walker's State theater starring Bob Steele, has many thrilling moments, some good laughs and plenty of flashing action, according to Manager Vic Walker. The film has its last showings here at tonight's performances. It is titled "Western Justice."

The program also includes a Popeye cartoon, "Two Alarm Fire," a comedy, "Brick-a-Brack," a news reel and a chapter of "Young Eagles."

Shows run continuously at Walker's on Saturday and Sunday, commencing at 1 p. m.

May 17 Chosen as Date For Garlock-Birtcher Nuptials

That Wayne Garlock and his charming fiancée, Miss Frances Birtcher, have selected May 17 as their wedding date, was the news revealed Thursday evening at a party given in the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Justus Birtcher, 424 East Myrtle street. Mrs. Birtcher and her two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Perkins jr. of Garden Grove and Mrs. L. E. Dunham of Long Beach, joined as hostesses at the event.

Mr. Garlock had selected delicate pink corsage bouquets to be worn that evening by his mother, Mrs. H. O. Garlock, and by Mrs. Birtcher. For his fiancée he had chosen a cluster of pink Cecil Brunner roses and dainty blue flowers to accentuate the blue in her frock.

Announcement of the approaching wedding date was made early in the evening. Tallies distributed for card play bore pictures of the engaged couple, together with the date, Friday, May 17. Scoring high at bridge, Mrs. Meredith Crumley was rewarded with a necklace. Mrs. Earl T. Johnston, who held high honors in 500 received a costume ring. Mrs. Fayette Blower and Miss Alice Noe each received a nail polish set for their low scores in the two contests.

The hostess trio maintained a yellow color scheme during the refreshment hour, with ice cream baskets designed with yellow rosebuds, were served. Tables spread with yellow linens were centered with matching tapers. Sweetpeas and roses formed a colorful background for events of the evening.

Invited to share the affair with Mrs. Birtcher, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Dunham, the hostesses, and Miss Birtcher, the bride-elect, were Mesdames H. O. Garlock, Francis Norton, Meredith Crumley, Donald Crumley, Elbert Blower, Geneva Stassin, Roy Lighthall, Carroll Ault, Walter Jordan, Earl Johnston, Carl Lykke; the Misses Katherine Harbert, Katherine Swoffer, Peggy Tadlock, Jean Phillips, Inez Noe, Alice Noe, Elizabeth Garlock, all of this city; Mrs. Fayette Blower, Balboa Beach; Mrs. Fred Schauer; Mrs. Cecil Birtcher, Los Angeles; Mrs. Fayette Birtcher, Anaheim; the Misses Ruth Stoner and Evelyn Williams, Orange; Mrs. Wendell Crowe (Marjorie Lan Franco) of Long Beach, formerly of El Modena, and a bride of recent date.

Wayne Garlock is son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Garlock, 692 Chestnut street, and is proprietor of a service station at West Fourth and Garnsey street. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Lambda fraternity. Both he and his fiancée attended local schools, continuing their studies at junior college following graduation from Polytechnic high school. Garlock was star quarterback on the Jaycee championship football team in 1929. Miss Birtcher is employed in the office of Dr. Dale E. Brockett.

Gifted Musicians Are Wedded At Beautiful Service

Pastel-hued flowers with festoons of greenery created a charming effect in Trinity Episcopal church, Orange, for the wedding yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, of Miss Margaret Gregg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Gregg, 405 East Myrtle avenue, Orange, and Merrill Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Bauer of El Modena.

Bright blossoms were at the entrance of each pew, but the altar arrangement was in white and green with many tapers gleaming amidst the flowers. Organ numbers including the Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches, were played by Miss Eva Hamsey, Miss Bulabelle Smith sang "Ich Liebe Dich" (Grieg) and "Because" (Waldteufel). Olinas Snow Matthews played violin solos, "Air for G. String" (Bach) and "Italian Love Song."

Miss Gregg entered the church on the arm of her uncle, O. L. Spencer of Long Beach. Her fitting gown was of white satin, with long sleeves and a court train. The tulle veil swept from a chaplet of orange blossoms to the full length of her gown. She carried white rosebuds showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Aural Bauer, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore dusk-pink chiffon with a blue hat to match the sheaf of delphiniums she carried. Little Betsy Ross Taylor, wearing ruffled yellow organdy, was flower girl with her basket of rose petals. Richard Bookins of this city was Mr. Bauer's best man, and Jack Feather and Robert Arrowsmith ushered.

The Rev. J. Alvin Shirley, rector of the church, read the marriage service. A reception followed in the parish hall, gay with flowers for the function. The new Mrs. Bauer cut a beautifully decorated cake which was served with fruit punch. When the young couple left for an automobile honeymoon trip, the bride traveled in a smart suit of blue wool with white dress accessories. They will return to make their home in Santa Ana, where Mr. Bauer will resume his ranching interests.

He is especially prominent in Santa Ana musical circles as a gifted violinist, and is a member of the symphony orchestra, Community Players' association and Junior Lions. He graduated from junior college here after completing Orange union high school course. His bride, also a graduate of Orange union high school who attended Santa Ana Junior college, is equally musical and has been organist at Trinity church for the past half dozen years. She held membership in the high school glee club, orchestra and Ensemble club, and in addition is interested in Girl Scout activities. She served as troop leader during the past year.

"STOUT DEMAND" FOR SLENDERIZING CAPES: PATTERN 2224

BY ANNE ADAMS

It's the Smart Stouts that make the big demand for cape ensembles. And no wonder—when a cape can do more to equalize her proportions than a rowing machine ever could! There's a big demand too for the dress that can be "run up in a few minutes, without much fitting," so Anne Adams supplies all the demands with 2224. And without the cape, that long diagonal sweep across the bust and the center front seam add to your height and subtract from your weight! Four waistline darts give you all the fit you should have at that strategic point. Select a solid color silk or cotton—if you choose a print, small design is safest! Pattern 2224 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 41-8 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

GET THE ANNE ADAMS SPRING PATTERN BOOK! Make for yourself the clothes that are smart, practical and becoming. Choose them from the 46 pages of this beautifully illustrated book which includes also exclusive fashions for tots and children, especially designed dresses for the mature figure, lingerie, and hosts of other interesting features. Lettuce salad with pineapple dressing

Black coffee or clear tea, no sugar.

All that is needed in this menu to make it the family meal are larger servings, bread and butter, and a favorite dessert.

When your trim tailored dress, or knitted suit, begins to ride up across your back, just take it from one who has been there, you are fat.

Not getting fat, but already there. What can you do about it? Plenty!

In the first place the Eat and Grow Slims are not typed to reduce weight quickly—they simply keep you down after you get there. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and you will receive a copy of the SAFE AND SANE DIET for fast reduction. Normally fat people can reduce from 1 to 3 pounds a week on this diet without the least discomfort or danger to health. . . . It's scientifically balanced, Y'see.

Then, you'll want a Calory List with the diet, so you can see exactly what food means in terms of calory values. And this list you may have by exchanging one of your favorite recipes for the list. Both can go in the same envelope.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Hominy Fluff

1 large can hominy
1 green pepper
1 egg, whites beaten separately
1 cup white sauce
Salt and pepper to taste.

—Contributed.

Drain the hominy, seed the green pepper, and run both through the food grinder. Use for the cream sauce. 1 Tbsp. butter, same of flour, cooked with 1 cup milk until creamy. Add to the ground hominy, whip in the egg yolks, taste and season. Bake in a buttered casserole, slow oven, until firm in center.

We tested this and found it to be quite the nicest thing that has come in for weeks. The texture was firm and light, like a well made cheese cake. The flavor was delicious and the color a delicate green.

This dish serves eight generously and the calories total a mere 700.

Easy Pumpkin Pie

2 eggs well beaten
1 cup sugar
1 cup canned pumpkin
1-2 tsp. ginger
1-2 tsp. cinnamon
1-2 cup thin cream or canned milk
Pinch of salt
Pastry for one crust.

—Contributed.

Line a pie shell with rich pastry, beat the eggs and brush the crust to prevent soaking. Combine sugar, pumpkin, spices and milk with beaten eggs. Whip well to mix and pour into the pastry shell. Start the baking in a very hot oven, reducing the heat to a slow-medium oven after 10 minutes. Bake until the filling is delicately firm in center to your finger tip.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Heavenly Father

Text: John, 14:8-24

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 7

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

With this lesson we begin a new quarter, its 13 lessons dealing with a concluding temperance lesson on "Liberty Under Law."

The first of these great teachings concerns the Heavenly Father. This is basic in the teaching of Jesus and in the conception of Christianity.

If we examine carefully all that Jesus did and taught, we shall find that primarily what He brought to the world was not a command, but a gospel. The first and primary thing in His teaching was not to tell men that they should love one another, but to tell them that there was a Heavenly Father who loved them.

It is the story of the love that God has for us that constitutes the gospel, and this story and this message were inherent in everything that Jesus did and said.

This does not mean that our love to God is less a privilege and duty, or that man's love to his fellow men is in any way of less importance. On the contrary, our love to God and our love to our fellow men are alike in harmony with and in expression of the love that God has toward us. John makes this very clear when he says, "If God so loved us, we ought also to love one another."

How do we know that there is a Heavenly Father who loves us? This was the question that was troubling Philip when he came to Jesus and said, "Lord, sheweth us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

Jesus did not answer him in vague or philosophical terms. He said that the evidence of God's love and goodness were in the love and goodness that we find in human life, especially in His own life given over so completely to doing the Father's will that men might behold in Him the reality of God.

It is important to grasp this. Jesus never made religion a thing apart from life, or the revelation of it something apart from human character and conduct. God is not remote from man, but

PREACHES WITH VIOLIN

Alexander Kaminsky, noted onscreen artist, decorated by Russian royalty or former brilliant successes in the theater, later converted to Christ and now avowing his talent to sacred concert work, will appear in such a concert at the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon.

Violinist Will Present Vesper Concert Sunday

Once the toast of old world patrons and the darling of Russian royalty, decorated by Czar Nicholas before the fall of the Romanoffs, Alexander Kaminsky, now a follower of Christ and consecrated to sacred concert work, will bring the magic of his violin to the First Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It was announced today by the Rev. O. Scott McFarland.

He preaches sermons with his violin, admirers of the artist declare, in describing his mastery of his art.

Kaminsky was formerly in the Royal Grand Opera in Moscow, a great favorite of the czar. Since the revolution he has toured the world, known as the Imperial Russian violinist. About five years ago he was converted, and immediately lost interest in the theater, or professional performances.

His repertoire, it is said, includes concertos by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, P. Tschaiakowsky, and such old sacred hymns as "Rock of Ages" and "The Old Rugged Cross." In connection with his program he tells of events in his life history.

A Leroy Urseth appears as his accompanist at the concert, admission to which will be free. A freewill offering will be taken.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT WILL FILL PULPIT

Because of the illness of the Rev. John B. Stivers, pastor of Orange Avenue Christian church, his place in the pulpit tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock will be taken by Dr. Cecil F. Cheverton, president of Chapman college.

Dr. Cheverton will be accompanied by the Chapman College Cardinal quartet whose members will take a prominent part in the services. The quartet has achieved a wide reputation for the excellence of its work, and combined with the forcefulness of Dr. Cheverton as speaker, the service promises to be one of rare spiritual value to which friends of the congregation are invited.

World Problems To Be Discussed By Rev. Budlong

"Personal problems and individual salvation are no longer the central problems of religion. In the face of a unified world, of mass production and mass movements that are world-wide in scope, we are ashamed to concentrate our thought and energy on our own lives and needs. Every phase of life is universal in significance. Crime is international and so is poverty and disease."

So declared the Rev. Julia N. Budlong today, saying that her address at the Free Church Fellowship Sunday evening will concern itself with these problems, and with the attitude and conduct of modern religion concerning them. All who attend the address will be presented with copies of J. T. Sunderland's "World Brotherhood" and "The World's Seven Great Historic Religions," she stated.

Meetings of the Free Church Fellowship are held in the Unitarian church, Bush and Eighth streets, at 7:30 p. m.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

JOB'S PATIENCE

The story of Job is told in prose at the beginning and end of the book which bears his name. A wealthy, God-fearing man, living in patriarchal style in the land of Uz, he suddenly is prostrated by a succession of calamities, and is stripped of possessions, of children and of health, a series of sufferings which he patiently endures. Three of his friends, Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar, visit him and a discussion, in poetry, takes place between them. Previously the narrative has declared that Job is righteous, and that sin is not the cause of his sufferings. In the last chapter Job realizes and confesses that in his discussion he had spoken beyond his knowledge. A prose conclusion describes the end of Job's life in peace and prosperity.—Job 13: 16-17. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625.

Spring Fashion Preview and HOSPITALITY NIGHT 7 to 9:30

Remember the Date—April 11th

The giant kept on snoring, and wee Cappy cried, "Come, lend a hand! I think it's up to us to set our friend, the giant, free." "We do not know who pulled this trick. I must admit, it was real slick. Let's wake him up. I'm sure he'll be surprised as he can be."

Then Scouty started shouting. "Hey! You surely do not wish to stay upon the ground, tied up like this. Wake up and see your plight."

The giant stirred and snored some more. Once more the bunch heard Scouty roar, "Aw, come on! If you're feeling us, it really isn't right."

"We're here to help you, if we can." Then to the man's side Dotty ran. She poked him in the ribs and then he opened up his eyes.

"Say! What has happened here?" he cried. "How come I am securely tied? I'll pay you back for this mean trick. I hope you realize!"

"We didn't do it," Goldy said. And then a squeal from overhead made all the Tynmites glance up. "There's the answer," Windy cried. "Those monkeys, high up in the trees, pulled off this trick, perhaps to tease. Come on, we'll set the giant free; then tan each monkey's hide!"

The vines with which their friend was bound had all been twisted "round and round." "My goodness, this is quite a task," said Goldy, with a smile.

"However, we will work away, if on the ground you'll kindly."

WHERE ARE THE RELIEF PROBLEM AND EXPENDITURES TAKING US?

We wonder if the people realize where this whole relief problem, the enormous appropriations, and the great proportion of the people on the government relief and payment rolls, are taking us.

We have before us the copy of a letter, sent by a well-informed man of this state, to a United States senator from this state.

It presents the facts so succinctly that we believe all should read it with great care.

In part, it reads as follows:

I would like to call your attention to the situation as obtains in the State of California.

Less than a year ago, we were spending from state funds, together with what allocations we were getting from the Federal Government, between four and five million dollars per month for the entire state. This did not take into consideration the amount spent by the counties for their problem cases, or cases that were not eligible for Federal relief, which amounted to about $600,000 per month in Los Angeles county and a proportionate amount in the other fifty-eight counties in the state.

During the year, by the different rulings of the relief administrator, and the letting down of the bars to those who wished to apply for help, the cost in the state has risen to the extent that the state budget is now $15,700,000 per month, together with an additional million and a half dollars furnished by the federal government exclusively for the care of transients.

This total relief burden equals, in the state of California, the sum of about $240,000,000 per year.

In October of last year, we exhausted the 20 million bond issue previously voted and the government insisted on the state providing funds for relief, so the governor was forced to call a special session, at which a 24 million bond issue was submitted to the people in November, which you know carried.

Pending receipt of these funds the government advanced to the state between 13 and 14 million dollars for the months of January and February, which money was to be repaid when the bonds were sold.

Now, at the end of March, it becomes apparent that it is impossible for the state to repay any of the money advanced by the federal government and in addition to this advance being cancelled, the relief administrator has allocated nine million dollars to the state to carry it until May 15th. This, added to the 24 million bond issue, will give us 33 million to carry us until May 15th, at which time the fund will show a deficit, after the expenditure of this 33 million dollars, of two and a half million and no further funds available for the state of California, except what can be raised by additional taxes to be levied in the future.

The governor, in his budget, is figuring an item of 47 million dollars to be raised for new taxes to carry the relief burden for the next biennium. At our present rate of expenditures, this will last three months instead of two years, besides adding an intolerable burden to the taxpayers of the state now struggling under a deficit on ordinary government expenditures of over one hundred million dollars for the biennium.

The next paragraph proceeds to say that he is informed by the state relief director, whom he says has carefully checked up on the figures, that a year ago 18 millions were recipients of government bounty, out of the 50 million employables in the United States, leaving 32 million actually employed in private industry.

He declares that the figures now are 24 and 26 million, respectively.

While there may be some discrepancy in these figures, there is nothing wrong with the tendency stated, which is perfectly clear.

Then the writer proceeds to state that those who are receiving aid have become so accustomed that many of them actually believe that the government owes them a living, and then he goes on to say:

And under our present system it is nearly impossible for any political body to materially reduce the number now on relief rolls in the government employ, because they are numerically stronger than those not receiving these benefits. It looks like that if these conditions continue that the republic is doomed and the Democratic party wrecked by a mistaken idea as to how relief should be administered.

The Public Works administration, which was laid out to immediately put a large number to work, was hopelessly administered by a system of "red tape" and regulations which, although started in 1933, has only been able to spend a small amount of money and employ a small number of people, in comparison to their appropriations and original estimates.

The fact of the matter is that in the state of California there was allocated in non-Federal Public works about 38 million dollars. This figure did not include allocations to the San Francisco bridge, the Metropolitan Water district, Boulder dam or the All American canal but adding in all these factors, the best figure we were able to arrive at for peak employment, which peak has never been reached, was only about 21,000 people and we have a total in excess of 290,000 on relief, so it is evident that the PWA was not the solution, particularly in the way in which it was administered.

Let the people ponder on these facts! And then let them bear in mind that in California that there are 5000 new people coming into the state every week.

It was thought that the election of Sinclair would bring people here.

But it seems that the news was spread abroad that sanity, good business and prosperity had won the day at the election in California, through the defeat of Sinclair.

And of course it is very natural for the down-and-out and the needy to head for the prosperous sections, where aid naturally would be more plentiful.

At any rate, it is working out that way, though seriously we want to remember that the same inducements, which present themselves to the rich to come to California, have a like appeal to the poor, and maybe a little stronger, because of our climatic and other conditions, which save the cost of living.

All of this matter is very germane to the passage yesterday, of the $4,880,000,000 appropriation for the relief rolls of the nation.

SMUGGLING ALCOHOL

It might be well to start out by saying: "And another thing that the repeal of prohibition did not do, though it was widely claimed that it would do it, it did not put rum row out of business."

According to Stephen B. Gibbons, head of the national alcohol tax unit, 16 to 18 vessels are regularly sailing along the New York and New England coast line supplying bootleggers with alcohol. A less number of ocean going vessels regularly supply rum runners operating in the Gulf of Mexico.

Most of the alcohol is manufactured in Holland and Belgium and when it leaves the different European ports our own consul agents will notify the state department that it is on the way over. Generally speaking, the alcohol is first landed in a Canadian or British Honduras point, from where the vessels that cruise outside the American ports take their supplies.

From the time the alcohol leaves Europe, it is suspected of being intended for American consumption. It is regularly traced to bootlegging vessels, but the crime only begins when an attempt is made to smuggle it into the country.

Until that actual attempt has been made no crime has been committed. The arrest and punishment is incident to the attempt by the government to frustrate the crime. This explains why it is so difficult to suppress this business, and why millions in taxes that should be paid on liquor sold by bootleggers never find their way into the federal treasury.

Rum running was falsely said to be a crime engendered by prohibition. Many a thoughtful person swallowed the statement as being true. But smuggling of rum or other goods is almost as old as taxes. Attributing it falsely to prohibition has done nothing to correct it.

RURAL FIRE PROTECTION

The state forestry department, with headquarters in the city of Orange, has announced that it will answer fire calls from all unincorporated areas of the county.

To the farmer and the rancher, a fire is likely to be a great disaster. While the fire insurance rate is low and indicates that the possibilities of a fire are much smaller than in city areas, the losses from fire, when they do come, are likely to be very serious.

While city dwellers are likely to rush to a fire out of curiosity, and the hope of being thrilled, men and women born to the country rush to help the victim of a possible individual catastrophe. Men who may be enemies will, at considerable risk to themselves, fight each other's fires, and only the most wretched amongst them would deny whatever aid they might render in a moment of such great peril.

Mr. Sherman, the state ranger in charge, appeals to the people to do their part as his organization stands ready to do its own part.

German War Miracles

German military prowess is something which nobody is inclined to minimize. Yet it does seem that many people today credit the Berlin war leaders with the power to work miracles. It is likely that in the matter of lighter arms and munitions Germany is already prepared. It is not impossible that she is ready to launch a formidable air force at once. It is not inconceivable that she has secretly been piling up heavy artillery parts which can be assembled.

But there is another and more important kind of preparedness for which the German Army was particularly noted. It is inconceivable that Germany has already achieved it for the next test of arms. This is the factor of strategy. The great plan which Germany put into force in 1914 was several decades in the making. The lightning swing through Belgium for a quick knockout blow at Paris before the Russians became too pressing in the east was the subject of infinite thought and rehearsal. Von Schlieffen's dying words are said to have been: "Don't weaken the right flank."

Germany today, with her new frontiers, faces many new problems in strategy. It seems impossible that she should have worked them all out behind a high fence and with dummy formations.

School Yard Lunching Another Blot on Nation

Mississippi's school yards have witnessed none too much progress during the political regimes of men like Theodore Bilbo, now a Senator from the Magnolia state. But it is retrogression indeed for education in Mississippi when a mob uses one of the state's school yards for a lynching.

What was the talk among the children as they came to school the next morning? And what was the talk among them as they gathered, first at a distance, for death is awing, and then closer about the tree from which the lynchers, 50 men of the neighborhood, had visited mob law vengeance upon a Negro suspected of killing a white man? And what did the teacher tell them if they had a lesson in civics the morning after the mass murder?

Perhaps the Costigan bill will receive more legislative attention which President Roosevelt asked of Congress in his annual message.

More Truth Than Poetry

RANK INGRATITUDE

In Chile, when a vicious slug,
Or any other kind of slug,
Proceeds to eat
The corn and wheat,
The state sends out a legion
Of hungering and lethal mites,
Which sate their healthy appetites
Till not a worm
In all that southern region.

Quoth I, "This plan appeals to me;
A host of insects I shall free
On plain and hill
To eat their fill
Within my small dominions.
Far larger creatures I'll employ
The base marauders to destroy,
And if they're smart
They'll soon depart
On swift and hurrying pinions."

But when the evil bugs had fled,
The thankless mites that I had bred
Upon my farm,
To my alarm,
Evinced a hostile attitude.
They ate the crops that I had grown.
They lunched on corn that I had sown:
To me it's clear
That on this sphere
One should not look for gratitude.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

WHEN REVOLUTION IS POSSIBLE

I find a note of disillusionment and despair creeping into the letters that reach my desk from readers of these articles.

This disillusionment takes the form of doubt that the "intelligence" for which I have pleaded will win out in the race with despair, and a frantic clutching by "the desperate rich" and "the desperate poor" at quick remedies that will sooner or later land us in either Fascism or Communism.

We could, I think, if we set things right, come to a time when revolution would be possible in the United States, but we are not there yet.

I am reminded of a singularly clear analysis that Nikolai Lenin once made of the conditions that must exist before a thoroughly successful insurrection to inaugurate a revolution becomes possible.

Here are the four conditions he regarded as essential:

1. There must exist a revolutionary class, not merely a conspiracy or a radical party.
2. There must be revolutionary pressure from all the people.
3. Insurrection must come when the rising revolution is at its high point of culmination.
4. The army must be suffering from internal disaffection and disorganization.

Not one of these four fundamental conditions of Lenin yet exist in the United States.

We must not permit them to obtain. Intelligence still has time to assure a stable national future congenial to the American temperament and achievable by an intelligent modernization of the American tradition of private enterprise and political liberty.

READING

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: I hope you read a little every day. Of course I know you do. The funnies, the sports sheets, the fashion advertisements, the movies program, but what else? Oh, those series—Sam on the River, Sam on the Lake, very good. What else? Let us see. Let us see. If you were to eat nothing but cake and candy day after day what would happen to you? I agree with you. You'd be sick. Mighty sick. The day would come when you crawled under the blankets and hoped the doctor would come quick. And even after that you'd hate the sight or smell of cake.

Your mind is the power that rules your body. That body does nothing until your mind makes it go. The quality of that mind controls the quality of all that you do. Think that over. A body that was fed on confectionery wouldn't do any work worth talking about. First because it would not have the power and the punch. Good food has to go into its building for that sort of work. Next, the mind fed on confectionery ideas cannot function well. Books furnish a host of your ideas, and such cheap books as I've indicated, cannot feed a mind so that it is bright and quick and powerful. A mind has to have good food.

I don't mean that you cannot read stories. You have to have good stories. Good ones. Ones that have quality, taste, form, imagination, standards and ideals. If you get them you feed your mind and you grow both ways, inside and out. If you keep chewing cheap stuff, you don't grow in any direction. You just dry up. All you can say, "Oh yeah?" "You're telling me." Your mind hasn't been nourished. It's dried up to this pitiful state.

I am begging you to feed your mind, to nourish ideas in it, because you are going to have to live with that mind, and by it, all the days of your life. During your youth you have time and opportunity to cultivate it by reading. It's your one chance. If you let it go you're through. Many, many times the patient anxious, faithful librarian has handed you a list of good books. Just to make certain I will name some good ones for you once more.

They will start you, if you haven't started. Try: Treasure Island, Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn, David Copperfield, Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, Anne of Green Gables. If you are of college years read the old novels. You can't afford to miss Jane Austen, Thackeray, Trollope, George Elliot, Dumas. Read the great poets. And that brings me to the best books of all time, as far as I know. The Bible and Shakespeare. Read them. Study them. Know their finest passages well enough to recite them. If you know these two well you will have that quality of mind that endures, creates and triumphs. The qualities that you are searching for when you read books.

A little nonsense now and then, a bit of trash on occasions, all well and good. But for steady diet, for one good reading meal a day, ask for more nourishing rations and see that you get them.

Yours, Angelo Patri.
